Pair in court over 'bouncy castle' death of young girl

Inflatable was swept away in strong wind crushing seven-year-old

By Berny Torre
star@hertsexsexnews.co.uk

TWO fairground workers have appeared in court over the death of a seven-year-old girl who was crushed to death on a bouncy castle in Harlow.

Summer Grant suffered serious injuries while playing on the inflatable which was swept "some distance" at a funfair on March 26 last year.

The youngster, from Norwich, was taken to Princess Alexandra Hospital but died a few hours later.

Fairground employees Shelby Thurston, 25, and William Thurston, 28, both appeared at Chelmsford Magistrates' Court yesterday morning (Wednesday, July 19).

The pair, from Wilburton in Cambridgeshire, are jointly accused of manslaughter and failing to discharge health and safety duties.

They did not enter pleas and were released on unconditional bail to appear at Chelmsford Crown Court on August 16.

District Judge John Woollard said: "The manslaughter charge has to be sent to the crown court, I assume the second charge is arising from the first so I have to send both of them to crown."

William Thurston, who appeared in the dock in a dark suit and white shirt, and Shelby, who wore a white blouse and dark skirt, spoke only to confirm their names and that they lived at the same address.

Detectives are continuing their enquiries and are trying to trace a witness who was near the fairground rides at the time of the incident.

He is described as a young black man, believed to be aged in his teens.

Hearing

Several friends and family of tragic Summer attended the two minute hearing.

Speaking previously following the tragedy, Summer's mother Cara Blackie said she was "truly heartbroken" at the loss of her "bright, beautiful and most loving little girl".

Summer's father Lee Grant described her as "the most happy, polite and beautiful girl in the world".

Some 200 people paid tribute to Summer, from Norwich, at a vigil held at Harlow Town Park in April last year.

Anyone with information should contact police on 101.

Burglars with a gun rob £500 from house

A HARLOW woman was robbed at gunpoint by burglars who had broken into her home.

The suspects, who were wearing ski masks, forced their way into the property in Glebelands shortly after 11.15pm on Tuesday.

Armed with a gun and a knife they stole £500 from the woman who was inside.

Police are treating this as an isolated incident and say there is currently no risk to the wider public.

Witnesses or anyone with information regarding the incident is asked to contact DC Dawn Shearing at Harlow CID on 101 or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Fallen tree causes rail disruption

RAIL travellers trying to get to and from Harlow faced cancellations this week.

A fallen tree caused disruption to train services yesterday (Wednesday, July 19).

Trains were unable to run between Bishop's Stortford and Stansted Airport after the tree was brought down by the previous night's storm, causing it to fall onto overhead electric wires and blocking all lines between the two stations.

Network Rail staff were onsite and working "as quickly as possible" to remove the tree.

It meant Stansted Airport was not accessible from Stansted Mountfitchet.

Machete charge is denied

A HARLOW woman accused of having a machete in a public place has appeared in court to deny the charge.

Stephanie Messenger, 27, is charged with one count of possessing an article with a blade or point in Long Ley, Harlow, on May 11.

She appeared at Chelmsford Crown Court to enter a not guilty plea on July 12.

Samantha Lowther appeared on behalf of the prosecution while Daniel Taylor represented the defendant.

Judge David Turner QC directed the trial, which is estimated to last two days, be heard within the two weeks proceeding November 27.

Messenger, of Long Ley, was dressed in a blue dress with her hair tied back with a red bobble and spoke only to confirm her name, enter her plea and confirm that she understood when her trial would be heard.

She was released on unconditional bail.

Trial after two 'held captive'

TWO men are to stand trial accused of the false imprisonment of two men on the same day.

Paul White, 41, and Westley Kee, 37, are charged with two counts of false imprisonment which are said to have taken place on May 3.

The prosecution allege the defendants unlawfully and intentionally or recklessly detained Bradley Singleton and Aaron O'Boyle against their will.

White, of Longbanks, Harlow, and Kee, of London, entered not guilty pleas when they appeared before Chelmsford Crown Court.

Judge David Turner QC directed the defendants' trial, which is estimated to take four days, take place during the fortnight beginning the week of October 9.

Both men have been released on bail.

The victim had several injuries and had to taken to hospital

Gang kick, punch and burn 'homeless' man with lighter

Victim with learning disabilities is dragged out of tent and beaten

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A "HOMELESS" man with learning difficulties was kicked, punched and burnt with a lighter in an horrific attack near Harlow Leisurezone.

Rob Cox, 20, was rushed to Princess Alexandra Hospital with injuries to his face, eyes and arms after the incident in woodland near to Second Avenue in Harlow, on Wednesday, July 5, around 11pm.

Essex Police have launched an investigation to find three suspects – two men and a woman.

The victim, who has Asperger's syndrome, is being helped out by an online appeal.

Business

His friend Lauren Turner, 15, of Potter Street in Harlow, said: "He was in his tent minding his own business and a group of three dragged him out, punched him and burnt him with a lighter."

"He passed out. His friend found him lying on the floor:

"(Later) he told me what had happened."

She added: "I do not know why they attacked him."

"He had a black eye and half of his eye was bloodshot and completely red."

"He had a really bad burn mark the size of a lighter."

"He was in A&E for six hours."

According to Lauren, Mr Cox has been homeless since September last year and pitches up in various locations around town.

Lauren has appealed on Facebook for donations to help him after his possessions were lost in the incident.

She said: "He (Mr Cox) is a nice guy. He has Asperger's syndrome and does not have many friends."

Donations

"So far we have only got £20 (of donations) but I am having a boot sale to raise money for homeless charities."

A spokesman from Essex Police said: "Two men and a woman kicked and punched a 20-year-old man several times, before burning him with a lighter."

"The victim was taken to hospital with non-serious injuries."

"Police are treating this as an isolated incident and there is no threat to the wider public."

Anyone who witnessed the incident is asked to call Harlow Police Station on 101 or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

78-year-old acquitted on five counts of historic sex offences against children

A MAN accused of a string of sex offences against young children has been acquitted by a jury on five charges.

Bryan Lyall, 78, was charged with seven counts of indecent assault against three victims that were said to have taken place between 1964 and 1974.

Five of the assaults were alleged to have been committed on girls under the age of 13, while the two other counts were claimed to have been against a girl under the age of 16.

Lyall, of Potters Field, Harlow, denied the charges. His trial took place at Chelmsford Crown Court last week.

In his summing up of the case, Judge David Turner QC warned the jury about the difficult task they faced in trying a man accused of historic sex offences against children.

He told them not to rely on assumptions and thoughts they may have formed in regard such case and their alleged victims.

Judge Turner also informed the jury not to believe the evidence of witnesses based on whether they liked them or not.

Deliberations

Following three days of deliberations, the jury returned not guilty verdicts for five counts of indecent assault.

However, the 12 were unable to reach a verdict on two of the counts.

Mr Lyall was then released by the court.

You're all invited to town's 70th birthday celebrations

Here's everything you need to know about Sunday's big street party

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

WITH 2017 marking the 70th anniversary of Harlow's inception, there are various celebratory events being organised.

This Sunday, as part of these celebrations, residents are invited to fill the streets and enjoy the Harlow Carnival procession as it travels through the town.

Council leader Jon Clempner said: "As well as financially supporting local events throughout the year, we want to give something extra back to our residents as part of Harlow's 70th birthday celebrations."

"Staff from around the council have been working hard to organise the carnival and there has been a fantastic response from local groups who want to be part of it."

Here is all you need to know about the event:

WHAT IS IT?

There has not been a carnival in Harlow for several years and this event proposes to celebrate Harlow from the 1940s to present.

The carnival will tie in with Harlow Town Park festival LinkFest, which will be held at the Bandstand.

WHERE, WHEN?

The march will begin at The Stow at noon and travel to Harlow Town Park. Roads involved will be closed from 10.30am to 1.30pm.

The roads that will be affected by the carnival on the day are: Howard Way, Maddox Road, Arkwrights, Minchen Road, The Stow, First Avenue, Monkswick Road, School Lane and Park Lane.

WHAT'S ON?

A number of floats featuring town organisations will form a procession while performing arts groups Hip Hop Pop and the Kevin Adams Academy will perform.

Floats and walking groups will be in the procession.

LinkFest will feature a great selection of bands, including headliners Wrong Jovi, alongside a variety of stalls, as well as a bar and barbecue.

Harlow Carnival returns this weekend and the theme is the town throughout its 70-year history

Coroner rules out suicide in drug death

A CORONER has ruled there is not enough evidence to suggest a man who died from a drug overdose took his own life deliberately.

James Bunce, 39, was found collapsed and unresponsive on a sofa bed by his friend at his home in Harlow on May 16.

There was blood in Mr Bunce's airway and a plastic bag with medication and herbal cannabis was found nearby, Essex Coroner's Court heard last Thursday.

Police are not treating his death as suspicious.

Toxicity

A post-mortem examination carried out at Princess Alexandra Hospital gave a provisional cause of death of drug toxicity.

Mr Bunce had a high level of dihydrocodeine in his blood at the time of his death.

Senior coroner Eleanor McGann said: "There is some evidence of involvement in being offered Class A drugs."

"I have no evidence at all that when he took the drugs he intended to die."

"The evidence is that this was from recreational use. I'm not returning a verdict of suicide."

Mrs McGann went on to conclude that Mr Bunce's death came about as a result of taking a drug overdose.

'Surprisingly awesome Bon Jovi tribute act will be big festival hit'

THE organiser of Harlow music festival LinkFest said the 2017 edition could be the most popular yet.

Jamie Pring has secured tribute band Wrong Jovi to headline the free event on Sunday, at the Bandstand in Harlow Town Park.

Music starts at 1.30pm with local favourites Fubar, Beat the Beast, Cadence and The Hamwabs also on the bill.

A carnival celebrating Harlow's 70th anniversary will be held on the same day.

More people

Mr Pring said: "More people are coming. More people know about it."

"Having the Harlow Carnival end in the town park in time for the start of LinkFest will hopefully bring over even more people this year who did not know about it."

LinkFest has in the past been divided over three Sundays but

Cadence will be among the acts performing at LinkFest last year scaled back to two and this year the second date is on Sunday, August 27, with another tribute Guns2Roses performing.

Mr Pring said: "I've seen both headliners before and they're great."

"Wrong Jovi are surprisingly awesome and it's music that everyone knows and will be able to sing along to. And of course everyone knows Guns N' Roses' music."

Mr Pring said it is a challenge to make LinkFest financially sustainable and thanked sponsors GPCA and Places for People, as well as volunteers.

Any money raised from LinkFest is used to fund future editions.

Wrong Jovi will headline the free event on Sunday

Health group to cut drug supply

THE financially-pressure West Essex Clinical Commissioning Group (CCG) is proposing to limit routine prescriptions to help balance its books.

The clinical commissioning group could cap the number of routine prescriptions of medicines and products that can be bought without prescription for short-term and minor illnesses.

Harlow residents would be affected should the proposal go ahead and the CCG promised that all would be consulted.

Dr Rob Gerlis, chairman of West Essex CCG, said: "Wherever possible we are looking to make savings that won't affect the quality of patient care.

"We are working more closely with our partners in the local health and social care system to avoid duplication and reduce administration costs.

"(We will also be) laying plans to make more efficient use of technology and buildings and working with those organisations that directly provide services to deliver best value for money."

A series of events will be held to give residents more information. Details of these can be found here: www.westessexccg.nhs.uk

Bush Fair traders have banded together to resurrect the historic fayre from which the area derives its name

Historic celebration held again after 138 years

BUSH Fair Fayre will be held in the Harlow shopping hatch next month for the first time since 1879.

Harlow councillors Ian Beckett and Mark Ingall have worked with Bush Fair Traders Association to re-establish the former annual event, which was last held during Queen Victoria's reign.

The 2017 edition will be held on Saturday, August 19, and Sunday, August 20.

Visitors will have the opportunity to try food and drink and also enjoy entertainment such as dance and music.

There will also be an open air cinema screening a film as well as a community breakfast on the Sunday, followed by a cycle ride organised by bike shop Hub and Spoke.

Mehmet Cakmak, owner of Café Pizzeria and chairman of Bush Fair Traders Association, said: "For the first time in ages we've found the time to come together as a traders group and there's a real buzz about this project.

"The overall plan is in place and we're now refining the detail, but it's going to be great for sure."

Residents protest over proposed road closure

Petition launched to halt restrictions on route out of estate

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

HUNDREDS of Harlow residents are angry a Church Langley link road will be closed to traffic in a major overhaul.

In a heated meeting on Wednesday, July 5, Harlow Council's planning committee narrowly passed proposals to modify London Road, despite 413 representations from residents.

The passage between The Chase and Gilden Way stands to become accessible only to buses and pedestrians from 2019. A bus gate and new signs will be installed.

Movement

Those in favour argue the modifications will allow better pedestrian and traffic movement with Newhall Phase 2, Harlow Enterprise Zone and the M11 junction 7a all being built.

But Church Langley Conservative councillor Simon Carter fears closing one of the development's two connecting points to traffic could result in gridlock.

He said: "It was approved by four votes to two but since then residents have been revolting.

"In the 24 hours after a Facebook group has gained 1,700 followers. We are asking people to write to Essex County Council (where a highways committee will consider the motion)."

The alternative to London Road would be to take the A414 towards Harlow Mill. A petition to oppose the plan has also gained hundreds of signatures.

Newhall Phase 2 is a plan to build an additional 2,300 homes the area and the road is a key part.

Clr Carter added: "Church Langley needs a second route out of their estate.

"There are no bus services serving Newhall or London Road at the moment, despite there being around 1,000 adults living there. So why do we need a bus gate at all?"

London Road is sometimes known as Old London Road, but should not be confused with a nearby residential street of the same name.

The planning inspector recommended the committee granted permission.

He wrote: "The bus gate will ensure traffic for M11 Junction 7a does not rat run pass the residential access to Newhall and feed onto the Tesco roundabout.

London Road in Harlow

"The bus gate will help ensure three residential accesses are improved by the reduction of traffic. It also provides a safe drop off area for the school."

The rat run term was mocked on Facebook group #Don'tCloseOLR where members posted photos showing clear traffic.

Conservative councillor Michael Garnett joined Labour members Edna Stevens, Jean Clark and Bob Davis in voting the motion through while Tories Sue Livings and Andrew Johnson opposed.

Jenny Titmuss, of Church Langley, saves at least 30 minutes a day on her school runs in Harlow and Sawbridge-worth by using London Road.

She said: "I think this will have a horrendous effect. We were supportive of keeping it open and we were delighted there were two councillors on our side.

"But there was a total disregard of the questions we put.

"We asked for proof of the traffic and the rat run but there was silence.

"I have never seen people so angry. When the decision was read there was a stunned silence."

Decision

London Road passes Mark Hall Academy and councillor Bob Davis sympathised the decision could leave Church Langley less accessible, but his vote was to ensure safety of students.

He said: "I was thinking ahead. Once it comes together I can imagine there are going to be serious traffic problems and the danger to children.

"I think (the opposition) has been orchestrated politically, the Conservatives are trying to campaign on something.

"There is a risk the developer will not build."

Developer breaks ground for new homes at Harlow Rugby Club site

AS Harlow Rugby Club moves to a new base, location work has begun to build 125 houses at its former site on Elizabeth Way.

Developer Kier Living Eastern (KLE) has broken ground on what was formerly a pitch and has pledged 40 of the homes will be affordable.

These will include a selection of two, three and four-bedroom houses and two-bedroom flats.

The rugby club is soon to officially open two miles away at Latton Park.

David Thomas, sales and marketing director for KLE, said: "The developments in Harlow have been five years in the making and we are very excited to be getting started on the residential element now the new rugby club is completed.

"We have been able to create a fantastic club for the Harlow Rugby Club at the Latton Park site with state-of-the-art facilities and we very much look forward to seeing the club continue to thrive."

KLE will also create a children's play area on the residential site at Ram Gorse and make contributions to public art, playing fields, health and education.

Woman used fake document to get passport

'Sad, shameful day for you' says judge

By Richard Duggan
star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A WOMAN from Harlow who used a fake birth certificate to apply for a passport so she could bring her husband from Ghana to the UK has been spared jail.

Nancy Williams' "dark secret" led to her pleading guilty to one count of using a false instrument with intent when she appeared before Chelmsford Crown Court on June 7.

Williams, 40, of Taylifers, in Harlow, appeared at the same court to be sentenced for her crime last Wednesday.

Mum-of-three Williams claimed her now dead uncle had secured the false birth certificate for her when she was 29.

Before passing sentence, Judge David Turner QC said: "This is a sad shameful day for you.

"It may well be true you had been born in Lambeth but this was not your birth certificate.

"You used it wrongly to get a passport for yourself.

"In due course you used that passport to secure the entry of your husband from Ghana."

The court heard how Williams, who has lived in the UK for around 16 years, had no previous convictions. A part time agency worker, she is currently in her second year of an online course in health and social care at Anglia Ruskin University.

Good work record

Williams' husband, Raymond, who she married in 2008, has been given indefinite leave to remain in the UK as her spouse.

Noting Williams' good work record, Judge Turner questioned whether or not her conviction would have an impact on future employment.

"There are no issues in respect of debt, drugs, alcohol, mental health or anything else," said Judge Turner.

"What there is here is a dark secret. I'm told the family is involved in church life. I have no doubt you are making a useful contribution.

"There's nothing to suggest you have made a negative contribution in this country before this allegation."

Judge Turner was concerned Williams had not been completely truthful when she was interviewed by a probation officer.

"I'm not completely certain you have been quite as frank as you should have been," he said.

"The people who I'm concerned about are your three sons - there's nothing to suggest you aren't a good mother to them. You may face challenging times ahead."

He sentenced Williams to 12 months imprisonment, suspended for two years. In addition, Williams was ordered to carry out 200 hours of unpaid work to benefit the community, must pay a victim surcharge and has three months to pay £200 towards prosecution costs.

Before Williams was released, Judge Turner warned her she had come very close to going to prison as a result of her "devious conduct".

New sensory room will help all pupils to thrive at school

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

A HARLOW primary school has spent £25,000 on a sensory room to help develop children with additional needs.

Cooks Spinney Primary Academy, Cooks Spinney, has installed physical resources to help pupils with conditions such as Downs syndrome, autism and development delay.

Priority

Head Neil Stirrat explained that while schools are battling financial strain, a decision was made for the room to be a priority for the Burnt Mill Academy Trust (BMAT) group school.

He said: "We have been running bespoke curriculums for those who need it to ensure they can thrive in our mainstream school. "Parents send their children to Cooks Spinney as they believe this is the best place for them.

Children try out the new Cooks Spinney Primary Academy sensory room, left and above

"We embrace the challenges these children bring and work hard to give all children the same opportunities."

The room includes lights, toys and devices to stimulate the children who use it.

And it will be used by students at other schools in the BMAT group.

Mr Stirrat added that they were able to fund the room through "careful budgeting".

He said: "This provision is incredible for our children.

"For the six or seven years these children are with us, they will have access to something amazing.

"It sets us apart from other primary schools."

Primary school takeover row as 650 sign protest petition

Ofsted result not a reflection of our school which does not need saving'

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

MORE than 650 people have signed a petition against a Harlow primary school becoming part of a national academy group.

Parents of children at Jerounds Community Primary School in Pyenest Road have been told the school will be taken over by National Education Trust (NETAT) from September.

All are resigned to becoming an academy after an 'inadequate' Ofsted rating but parents staged a protest and 677 have signed the online petition against NETAT being the choice of sponsor.

Since the Ofsted inspection the school recorded its best ever Year 6 SAT results.

Sarah McDonald, who has a child at Jerounds, said: "We have previously been an 'outstanding' school. We had an inspection just before Easter but all issues have been resolved.

"I feel the Ofsted result is not a reflection of our school and our school does not need saving.

"We are in favour of a local primary academy. NETAT has schools all over. They might come in and try to turn things around but we do not need that.

"We are quite happy with it as parents. It is our school and it should be our choice."

Mrs McDonald was keen to point out that she has nothing against NETAT but would have preferred a local academy trust.

Jerounds parents' first caught wind of the change in a letter that was sent home. School governors have been replaced by an interim board during the transition period.

The regional schools commissioner Dr Tim Coulson made the decision and has received letters from parents hoping he will change his mind.

Concern

Harlow MP Robert Halfon has also entered the debate. He wrote to the commissioner: "I am concerned about the strength of feeling this process has invoked and the worry this is causing many parents.

"The parents have many questions too, not least why one specific trust was chosen over another. The transparency of this process appears to be of particular concern."

Last year Milwards Primary School in Paringdon Road successfully protested a similar Jerounds Primary pupils protest against proposals for a national academy trust to take over the Harlow school takeover proposal.

NETAT control other Harlow primaries Latton Green, Abbotswald, Longwood and Katherine.

Claire Ford, who started the petition, said a local academy trust was on the table but was overlooked for NETAT for reasons unknown to parents.

She said: "Few parents disagree this is not the best choice. All we want is an answer why NETAT was chosen and the other was rejected."

She said Dr Coulson has yet to respond to the petition and letter.

Jerounds and NETAT have been approached for a response but none was received at time of publishing.

Inquest into the death of car crash driver opens

THE inquest into the death of a 46-year-old man from Harlow who died in a crash has opened.

Paul Pennings had been travelling from Epping towards Harlow when his car swerved into the path of another vehicle on the B1393 in the village of Thornwood, near North Weald, on July 1.

The collision, which took place shortly after 1.55pm, saw a section of the road closed while the emergency services attended the scene.

Paramedics

Despite the best efforts of paramedics, Mr Pennings was pronounced dead at the scene at 3.10pm.

His death is not being treated as suspicious.

On Tuesday July 11 the Essex Coroner's Court heard how a post mortem examination carried out at Princess Alexandra Hospital concluded the medical cause of Mr Pennings death was from multiple trauma.

Coroner Eleanor McGann adjourned the inquest to be heard at 12.30pm on October 26.

The inquest has been given a one hour time estimate.

Mr Pennings' body has been released to allow funeral arrangements to be made.

A lonely stall in Market Square

Makeover to turn Market Square into area of opportunity

'We want to bring barren space alive with activity'

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

A MAKEOVER will transform Market Square from "barren space" to a "thriving events area", according to Harlow Council.

The local authority will install a replacement play area, table tennis facilities and seating but the focus is on providing an event space.

Councillor Tony Durcan, portfolio holder for regeneration and enterprise, said: "Rather than just a large barren space doing nothing we want Market Square to become an area of opportunity."

"We want to give it a much-needed makeover and bring it alive with activity. We want it to become a thriving events area, an area where people can play sport, relax and socialise."

Councillor Tony Durcan

Mr Durcan added that he would also like to see Harlow Market, which currently trades on Broad Walk, return to the square.

Improvements will be funded by the council's capital programme budget and works are set to begin in September once Harlow Council has appointed a contractor.

Regeneration

In addition new landscaping and paving will be completed, red plant pots will be repositioned and wi-fi will be made available in Market Square and Terminus Street Bus Station.

Mr Durcan added: "Improving Market Square shows our commitment to helping to regenerate the town centre which will encourage other investment to the northern end and kick-start other improvements."

However, Harlow Market trader Gavin Tyler, who runs a family fruit and veg stall, is less happy with the proposals.

He said: "I think it will be vandalised. That end of Market Square could be changing town is now so deprived that people don't go down there.

"I do not see any point in putting family orientated things there, I would not take my kids to a park there."

"I would like to see a car park for a maximum stay of two hours."

Mr Tyler was also unhappy at the prospect of the market returning to the square.

He added: "That would kill it. We would have half our trade if we were there. The shops down there have no passing trade. Nobody even looks left as they come out of Primark."

"If we were to move 100 yards up the road it would be a lot better."

Playhouse parking bays replaced by taxi rank as parking restrictions begin

NEW parking restrictions have been enforced outside Harlow Playhouse and the nearby College Square in order to improve traffic flow.

The move comes following concerns about vehicle access and the safety of drivers.

Previously motorists were able to park outside The Playhouse for a short amount of time, however this has since been replaced with new waiting bays for taxis only.

Anyone wanting to park their vehicle for up to 30 minutes can now do so in new bays in College Square.

There are also allocated bays for those who have blue disabled badges, although blue badge holders are not allowed to park on double yellow lines where there is a loading ban.

Bays for coaches have also been provided in the area.

Councillor Danny Purton, Portfolio Holder for Environment, said: "After concerns about parked cars and delivery vehicles blocking access in Playhouse Square, parking restrictions are being enforced to improve traffic flow and the safety of motorists in this area and the surrounding roads.

"As a result of the review we are also providing more parking spaces for disabled badge holders in nearby College Square."

"New road markings have been put down and signage put up setting out the restrictions and the new parking."

Yellow lines

He continued: "This includes double yellow lines in areas within Playhouse Square and College Square along with kerb markings which indicate no loading at any time."

"Blue badge holders cannot park on double lines where there is a loading ban."

"Adverts appeared in the Harlow Star in January and June to give notice of the changes and consultation with local groups also took place."

"Any resident can appeal against a parking charge notice if they believe it was unfairly issued."

New road markings have been put down in the area

CUTE KIDS CONTEST: Winners chosen in annual Harlow Star competition

Rosheene and Milaniyah Connolly, Lucy and George Groves, Samantha and Mia Porteous, Terri, Emel and Leyla Gorur with their winning pictures

The cutest kids – as selected by readers

THE winners of the Harlow Star Cute Kids, the annual photography competition capturing beautiful images of babies and young children, have now been announced after a readers' vote.

In the 0-12 months category the overall winner with the most votes received was George Groves.

The 13-24 months category was won by Milaniyah East and in the 2-5 years category Mia Porteous was the winner.

The groups and siblings up to 11 years category was won by Emel and Leyla Gorur. Each winner or winners won portraits of the cute children by Conrisa Photography.

All of the winners were from the Harlow area.

Harlow Star editor Alan Woods said: "There were so many cute babies to pick from this year it must have must have been very close in our vote.

Congratulations

"Congratulations to our winners, whose pictures were undoubtedly incredibly cute, to say the least.

"Thank you also to the Harvey Centre for hosting our presentation and Sonrisa Photography for the stunning snaps.

"I look forward to next year's competition.

LIBRARY

A reminder to treasure service

I'M writing to express my appreciation for the Old Harlow Library and indeed for all public libraries.

Were it not for my local library I would have lost an entire day of work today due to problems with the Virgin broadband network in my area. Like many home workers, I'm reliant on wi-fi and by the time I was told that the service would not resume until the end of the day, it was too late to travel into my office in London.

Thankfully, I could spend several hours in the library using the wi-fi for the cost of the council car park.

While I was there, a mother and her three young children came in to join and to take out a stash of books for the holidays.

The patience and enthusiasm of the librarian throughout this lengthy and exuberant process was deeply touching.

She took the time to explain to the children how to use the library, including how to order books and entered into a lengthy conversation with the little girl about one of the books that she'd chosen because she'd read it at school.

"No, I haven't actually read that one but you must have really enjoyed it if you want to read it again at home," she replied to the child's earnest inquiry.

Overall the experience reminded me of the immense value of our public services and in this case, subsidising the poor performance of one of our biggest businesses.

THANKS

A&E provided royal treatment

I WOULD like to say a very big thank you to the staff of A and E and John Snow assessment ward for the kindness and help they gave my sister on July 13.

She had fallen down my stairs and badly hurt herself; we got to the hospital and within five minutes she was seen by a nurse practitioner.

After being treated and having a CT scan, drip etc she was taken to the assessment ward where she was given lunch then saw the doctor. We got home about 2.30pm during all this time she was not left on her own for more than five minutes.

She couldn't have got better treatment if she had been the Queen.

Mrs B Rampling

RETIRING

Heads 'titans of education'

I WOULD like to pay tribute to three exceptional community

PICTURE OF THE WEEK

leaders. To many people their names may be of small significance or unheard of but in the Stewards community and the world of education their names are titan and don't come any larger.

At the end of this week head teacher Ms Rhonda Murthar, senior deputy head teacher Mrs Lynn Orwin and deputy head teacher Miss Terry O'Neill will retire, after nearly 30 years of loyal service, from their positions at Stewards Academy. Like all teachers their job of educating the next generation has been made more challenging by the external forces created by repeated government interference and ideology from across the political spectrum.

To give our readers a flavour of what I am talking about in the past 30 years here is a list of some of the qualifications that teachers have been preparing children for: the CEE, the GCSE, A* grades introduced in 1994, GNVQs introduced in 1996 and then withdrawn in 2007, key skills levels 1 and 2 introduced in 2000 and then withdrawn in 2013, modular exams and then linear exams, calculators allowed and the removed from GCSEs on a number of occasions, coursework serially relaxed, tightened, transformed, 2015, the removal of controlled assessments (formally coursework) and the return to the 1 to 8 (and then 1 to 9) grading system last seen in the 1970s.

Finland, a country which is ranked at the top of international educational tables by comparison has seen its terminal exam for pupils, the Abitur, unchanged in any significant way for over 100 years.

The pressure of change does not confine itself to the title or style of examination, changes which one could in part attribute to some element of rational thinking despite the changes themselves appearing irrational. Instead many of the changes and pressures appear whimsical and happen largely without consulting teachers as if professional experience were in itself a vested interest.

An example of this came only this week when we learnt that primary children as part of their SATS tests were asked to insert punctuation in a pre-written sentence.

Despite getting the answer correct, pupils failed to get a mark because their commas were not curved the right way or their semi-colon was too large or not in precisely the right place. Pedantry or raising the standards in education?

It is sometimes hard to tell the difference between the two nowadays.

Schools for a number of decades have operated in an atmosphere where testing regimes encourage some schools to attract only the most able and exclude those who have a particular learning need because league table success seems to be the only measure of a good education.

It is against this grim backdrop and pressure that the remarkable school leaders I write about today have worked hard to provide a decent comprehensive education for the children of this town.

If anyone is in doubt as to what the ethos of a decent comprehensive education is, I share with you a quotation whose source is unknown but was shared with me by Rhonda Murthar:

"As the old man walked down the beach at dawn, he noticed a young man ahead of him picking up starfish and flinging them into the sea. Finally catching up with the youth, he asked him why he was doing this. The answer that came back was the stranded starfish would die if left in the morning sun.

The old man looked up across the beach. "But the beach goes on for miles and miles and there are millions of starfish. How can your efforts make any difference?"

The young man looked at the starfish that was in his hand and as he threw it into the safety of the waves he said to the old man, "It makes a difference to this one". In other words, everyone counts.

These three women are true educationalists. They are teachers in every positive meaning of the word, dedicated to the craft of teaching for the purpose of improving the lives of the children they teach and for the betterment of our local community and society at large. They have been inspirational role models for thousands of children from Harlow and the surrounding environs for most of their professional lives. I, like everybody at Stewards will miss them greatly.

FIRE SERVICE

Total disregard for residents

I READ with dismay the news in the Star, July 6, that Harlow Fire Station will lose its aerial ladder platform (ALP). Yet again Essex County Council shows its disregard for Harlow residents. There are five ALPs in Essex, four are to be retained but Essex County Fire and Rescue Service have decided earlier this month to scrap the one in Harlow. Why? Because it is only needed once a month!

Yet any of these 'once a month' events could lead to loss of life. The nearest ALP to Harlow would then be in Chelmsford, not near enough to be immediately available if one of our tower blocks needed it. All the other three are in East Essex. Why do Essex County Council treat Harlow residents as second-class citizens?

I have lived in Harlow for over 40 years and during that time there have been numerous occasions when they have disregarded our wishes. We wished to retain 11 to 18 schools yet were forced to lose sixth forms while other areas of Essex retained theirs.

More recently our views about the best route to join the Hertfordshire link to the A414 to the M11 were brushed aside.

How Essex Council Fire and Rescue Service can justify this decision in the light of the recent Grenfell Tower fire remains a mystery.

Hundreds flock to see Matalan store unveiled

Young Lily is star of show as she performs grand opening

By Charlotte Page
charlotte.page@hertsexnews.co.uk

MATALAN in Harlow has officially unveiled its new look following a huge refurbishment.

At the grand opening on Saturday, July 1, the clothing store located in The Water Gardens was opened by Matalan model Lily Beddall, 3, from Sawbridgeworth.

Alongside her family, Lily was joined by hundreds of customers who flocked to the store ahead of the doors opening to get their hands on a free goody bag, and the chance to win their entire shopping basket full of goods.

Xhead

Shoppers will now see bigger and brighter displays, as well as increased stock package and the expansion of their range twofold.

Matalan store manager, Liz Bignell, said: "We're so happy that Matalan has decided to invest in our store."

"We have a strong customer base here in Harlow, we've had such a positive response and we're seeing lots of new customers in the store since we re-launched."

"The store is performing exceptionally well since doubling our home-ware department and introducing additional fashion ranges, which are proving to be extremely successful."

"Due to our recent success, we're having to recruit new team members to help with the high customer demand."

"We're very proud of our new look store and very proud to be a part of Harlow."

'Delighted'

A spokesman for The Water Gardens added: "We're delighted at the success of Matalan's store relaunch, and particularly how many members of the community turned out in support of the store."

"The store looks fantastic and will undoubtedly encourage more customers to the Water Gardens, Harlow as a result."

Matalan's new look follows a number of upgrades made in The Water Gardens, including refurbishments at Greggs, Esquires and Next, who recently opened a Costa on site.

The Water Gardens will be holding a summer fun day this Saturday (July 22) from 11am to 5pm.

Guests will be able to enjoy live music and entertainment including Punch and Judy shows, an acrobatic performance, a special meet and greet with Nemo and Dory and much more.

It's good to be bad in director Leopoldo Aguilar's computer-animated coming-of-age story about a teenager who discovers he is a little monster in every sense.

Based on a simplistic screenplay by Billy Frolick, this sporadically amusing if derivative yarn has faint narrative echoes of Hotel Transylvania and Zootropolis but none of those films' charm, rollicking humour and visual sophistication.

Monster Island has a pleasing undercurrent of heartfelt emotion that venerates father-son relationships and the power of self-belief.

Yet good intentions don't translate to great entertainment, even with the inclusion of a cute animal sidekick (a turquoise lizard called Watson) and feel good choruses of pop hits.

At a lean 80 minutes, Aguilar's film doesn't outstay its welcome but it is evident from early scenes that there is bountiful padding around a linear plot that could easily be distilled in a sprightly half hour.

Animation quality is merely adequate. Characters' faces are painted in broad strokes, water effects in a pivotal sailing sequence ebb between mediocrity and lacklustre, and when animators gear up for an action set piece, it is brief and lacks excitement.

The unlikely hero is Lucas (voiced by Phillip Adrian Vasquez), a quick-witted 13-year-old "with a beast of an appetite", who lives with his father Nicolas (Roger L Jackson), owner of Trunk Mechanics.

Late one night, Lucas sneaks out of his house to attend a Halloween party hosted by middle school classmate Melanie (Jennifer Kaplan). Alas, the boy forgets his inhaler, which he needs to puff every 24 hours to stave off a mysterious hereditary condition.

In the middle of a slow dance, Lucas splutters and metamorphoses into a winged orange creature, terrifying fellow pupils including bully boy Cameron (Michael Robles).

"When we turn into teenagers, we also turn into monsters," Nicolas tenderly explains to his incredulous boy, revealing that they hark from an otherworldly island called Calvera.

Stealing an ancient map that "acts like a GPS", Lucas heads to Calvera to meet his grandmother Carlotta (Katie Leigh), who runs a depot store with her purple warthog assistant, Veronica (Fiona Hardingham).

Meanwhile, a diabolical scientist named Norcutt (Johnny Rose) abducts island residents with the help of henchmen Durgo (Chuck Kourouklis) and Mongo (Erik Braa) in order to create a potion that harnesses all of their beastly powers.

Monster Island lacks the scope, ambition and technical virtuosity to scare up gargantuan box office takings.

The plot unravels quicker than a clumsy mummy's bandages and the limited visual palette is the final stake through the film's heart.

James D'Arcy as Colonel Winnant and Kenneth Branagh as Commander Bolton in Dunkirk

Compelling and moving

Brevity is the soul of writer-director Christopher Nolan's harrowing wartime drama. In his shortest feature since the acclaimed 1998 debut Following, the Oscar-nominated filmmaker crafts a stunning mosaic of personal stories of hard-fought triumph and agonising defeat against the sprawling backdrop of the largest evacuation of allied forces during the Second World War.

Nolan adopts a stripped back approach to storytelling that jettisons dialogue for long sequences.

He sets our nerves on edge in the hauntingly beautiful opening scene and steadily tightens the knot of tension in our stomachs until we are physically and emotionally spent.

Pulses race in time with composer Hans Zimmer's terrific score, which includes a soft percussive beat like a clock ticking down to doomsday, and a new arrangement of Elgar's melancholic Nimrod from Enigma Variations.

By keeping his script lean, Nolan allows us to remain white-knuckle taut in our seats for the duration. However, strict rationing of screen time comes at a price.

Characters' fates intersect on oil-slicked sea, land and air largely without back-stories and when we do learn about these brave men's pasts, it is predominantly through expository dialogue.

Young British soldier Tommy (Fionn Whitehead) escapes a hail of German bullets and races to the beaches of Dunkirk, where more than 300,000 exhausted men await rescue.

Tommy huddles alongside terrified recruits Gibson (Aneurin Barnard) and Alex

(Harry Styles), whose fates rest in the hands of Commander Bolton (Kenneth Branagh) and Captain Winnant (James D'Arcy).

The officers take tough decisions about the order of evacuation under enemy fire. "One stretcher takes the space of seven standing men," coolly observes the Commander.

On the other side of the Channel, sailor Mr Dawson (Mark Rylance) answers Winston Churchill's impassioned call for civilian boats to rescue our boys.

He is accompanied by his surviving teenage son, Peter (Tom Glynn-Carney), and the lad's friend, George (Barry Keoghan). At sea, the family rescues a shell-shocked soldier (Cillian Murphy) from the hull of an overturned vessel and witnesses a dogfight between German fighter planes and Royal Air Force spitfires piloted by Farrier (Tom Hardy) and Collins (Jack Lowden).

Dunkirk glisters in fragments, which slot together to form a compelling and deeply moving narrative that captures this page in recent history from multiple perspectives.

The ensemble cast is excellent, including One Direction star Styles, who confidently hefts the emotional weight of one nerve-jangling stand-off in a sinking boat.

Aerial sequences are breathtaking, especially in the immersive 70mm format, which projects at selected cinemas and should be sought out wherever possible.

Sound design is also striking, most notably when Zimmer's score surrenders to the ears-splitting scream of dive-bombing Luftwaffe targeting British soldiers on the sand.

When the Oscar nominees are announced in January next year, you can be sure that Nolan and his gifted technical crew will be leading the charge.

CELEBRITY WELLBEING

SARA COX ON MOTHERHOOD, AGEING AND BEING A GROWN-UP

If you'd told my 20-odd year-old self that I would love exercise, she'd have scoffed

TODAY, Sara Cox like Pilates more than partying. She now hosts Radio 2's Sounds of the 80s, recently presented BBC2's The Great Pottery Throw Down, and will helm the channel's new series, Love In The Countryside, helping rural singletons find love.

At 42, it's fair to say she's settling down. Here, she shares her feelings on dating and romance, parenting, and talks about trying to be a grown-up...

How are you going to find love in the countryside?

I'M thrilled about going back to my farming roots to present Love In The Countryside. My role is to help and support single people living and working in the countryside to find love. We're urgently looking for people from towns and cities to apply to join the programme and who are seeking their perfect partner and want to escape to the country.

I loved growing up on my dad's 40-acre farm, just outside Bolton, helping him with his herd of Hereford cattle. The days are long, demanding and tiring and the fact that communities are often small can make it very hard for people to find the time, energy or opportunity to pursue romance.

I'm a bit of a romantic and really hope I can help. I know how lovely it is to go home, kick your shoes off and relax with a partner who's there for you. I've actually already brought one couple together who met through following me on Twitter and went on to marry.

How do you feel about being in your 40s?

I'M enjoying it - I'm happy, married with three kids, so what's the big deal? There's such a fuss made about turning 40, but it was fine two years ago and remarkably, I'm still fine! Age is always made to be such an issue for women, which is sexist, as it isn't like that for men.

Mind you, I wouldn't say I'm grown-up - I don't think anyone ever feels completely grown-up. When I go to my kids' school, I have to give myself a talking to and remind myself that I'm not a child who can be overawed by teachers and authority figures.

How do you feel about motherhood?

I CAN'T sum it up without sounding like a schmaltzy greetings card! There can be times of immense joy and immense tiredness!

When they're babies, [Sara has three children - a daughter, Lola, 13, from her first marriage to DJ Jon Carter, and Isaac, 9, and Renee, 7, with her advertising executive husband Ben Cyzer] although they're incredibly sweet, it can feel repetitive and non-rewarding. At one time, Ben and I felt like staff in our house - we'd meet each other in the corridor virtually walking in the opposite directions with a baby or toddler or both in tow.

I'm really enjoying parenting now they're more independent. Lola and I have great teenage chat sessions, but I never want to be one of those so-called cool mums who calls herself her daughter's 'best friend', fist pumps her mates and name drops knowing their favourite boy bands.

Isaac is super active and so affectionate, while Renee's adorable with missing front teeth and always writing little loving messages for us.

How do you look after your health and wellbeing?

If you'd told my 20-odd-year-old self that I'd love exercise, she'd have scoffed, but I absolutely love it.

It's important for me mentally and the feeling of being strong and fit is addictive. I have a Fitbit, do 10,000 steps a day, walk our dogs, run, go to the gym and ride an ex-racehorse stabled near our home.

That's my passion - if I haven't ridden for a while, I feel like there's a bit of the jigsaw missing. I can be a bit driven and struggle to relax, so every so often, I try to lock myself away from the kids - usually in the loo - and practise mindfulness with the Headspace app. Let's say it's still a work in progress!

How do you view being labelled a 'ladette' in your 20s?

I WAS well-known, presenting a Radio 1 breakfast show, and followed by the paparazzi - I was fair game.

No-one made me go to all those snazzy places where they gave us free champagne and we had a ball.

I could have gone to a pub around the corner, but of course I didn't because I was 21 and having fun.

What's your secret indulgence?

CATCHING up with TV that I've missed. While I was presenting The Great Pottery Throw Down, contestants got around seven hours to make a piece, so I had downtime and worked my way through Peaky Blinders and, six years behind the rest of the nation, Downton Abbey.

Ben and I are also watching Love Island - we actually thought we were watching the current series, but it turns out we're only on Series 1, but I'm loving it anyway!

I find it a bit compulsive, but I don't know how people take part in reality shows - I can't think of anything worse.

1 TRIM and shape your toenails. Cut your toenails with proper nail clippers and then file into shape, taking care not to trim off too much.

2 GO barefoot in the heat. Get your toes out in the sun by wearing airy, open-toed sandals to stop your feet from getting sweaty (and smelly).

3 AVOID flip-flops. Yes, they are light and airy, but they provide your feet with almost no support whatsoever.

4 AVOID blisters. These are more common in hot weather, and can be made worse by new shoes. If you're unfortunate enough to get a blister, don't pop it as this can cause infection. If it does burst, keep it clean with antiseptic and a plaster.

5 GO au naturel.

Give your nails a break from nail polish, as this can stop nails from breathing properly, causing yellowing - never a good look on the beach.

Nail polish can stop your nails from breathing

6 CHANGE your socks regularly. Make sure you wear fresh socks every day and opt for those made with cotton or wool - they're cooler.

7 TACKLE cracked heels. Use a pumice stone to banish hard skin. Get rid of dead, flaky bits with a good exfoliator and then cover your newly smooth toes with foot moisturiser. Let the cream soak in overnight for extra-soft skin.

8 GET rid of sweat. It's more important to wash your feet regularly in the summer months.

9 BE wary of foot infections. Communal showers and changing rooms in your holiday hotel are a hotbed for germs, putting you at risk of athlete's foot and verrucas. Make sure you wear flip-flops around the pool area.

10 REMEMBER sun cream! Don't forget your feet when it comes to sun protection. Your nails, as well as the skin on your feet, are vulnerable, so make sure you slather on the cream.

HOTSEAT

Milkshake singer Kelis, 37, says Pitch Battle has allowed viewers to see a different side of her. MARION McMULLEN finds out why the Grammy winner would love to sign up for another clash of the choirs

Has being a judge on choir competition Pitch Battle changed people's perception of you?

SOME people say I'm mysterious. I don't think I am but some people think so. With this they get to know who I am, this shows a different side to me and I'm able to talk about music.

Do people think you and fellow judge Gareth Malone are an unusual match?

I THINK someone said we were an odd couple, but we get along amazingly. We are a good team. He is great to hang out with and is super talkative.

He is also really easygoing, which I love. I am really enjoying getting to know him. I would love to come back, if I get asked to.

Joe Jonas joins the panel tonight as a guest judge. Are you excited about the choirs performing in the live final next weekend for the £50,000 prize?

IT'S pretty epic. It doesn't get much bigger. I love that they all want to sing. No-one wants to be anywhere else. I love that so much.

You started out singing in choirs before embarking on your successful music career. Is it one of the reasons you wanted to get involved with Pitch Battle?

I THOUGHT it would be really fun. I have hosted TV shows before but this is completely different for me. I have watched shows like this but never judged on them, only on food shows.

Have you been excited about being a judge?

DEFINITELY! There is so much energy among everyone, including the judges and the whole thing just feels really good. There is a real fun vibe of people wanting to have a good time and I think it's an amazing opportunity for everyone taking part.

What kind of judge are you?

I'M NOT mean at all I promise! Everybody is looking to be a star but the great thing about Pitch Battle is that it is a team effort. Music is such a personal thing and so I think it's important to just be very honest with everyone.

You can be honest without being mean. In terms of what I am looking for, I want people to sing technically well and also, from the heart. That is really important to me.

You can be honest without being mean

Kelis performing on stage at the London United Against Racism festival at Finsbury Park in 2007

What advice would you give to the contestants hoping to reach the final?

THERE really is one thing that stands out above everything else and that is to listen. That, for me, is vital. A lot of people will be able to sing really well but that is not enough on a show like this. You have to be able to blend in well. So my advice is listen, listen, and listen!

Does it matter if the choir is all-male or all-female?

NO, it doesn't matter to me at all. Men, women, older people, it really doesn't make a difference so long as they can find a cohesive sound.

That's the key.

You've had an incredible career. What are you most proud of?

TO be completely honest with you, I never planned for this career. For me it all started with a choir when I was 17 and it's been crazy ever since!

I love my career so much and I feel so grateful to have done the things I have done.

Now I am on an awesome new BBC singing show in the UK. That was never in the plan but I am having the best time here!

■ Pitch Battle can be seen on BBC 1 tonight at 7.30pm.

THE FINAL BATTLE

THE finals of the BBC entertainment show will see the most successful groups singing it out on the Pitch Battle stage next Saturday.

Gareth and Kelis will also reveal to viewers at the end of tonight's show who the Wild Card entry will be to go through to the final with the chance to win £50,000.

Judge Gareth Malone says contestants have all to sing for if they want to win. "It's a Saturday night show and you have to give your whole self," he says. "You have got to know the track inside and out and you have to deliver a great performance to the audience and judges. Music is passion."

BOOKSHELF

EDDIE IZZARD never does anything by halves. He's performed comedy in numerous languages in massive stadiums, run not just one marathon but 27 in 27 days and played royalty opposite Dame Judi Dench in highly anticipated movie Victoria & Abdul.

The cross-dressing comedian, actor and writer – who originally wanted to join the SAS – constantly sets himself seemingly impossible challenges and frequently diverts from any conventional career path to a more hazardous route which is much trickier to navigate.

His latest diversion, memoir Believe Me, reveals – in part – why he's developed such a tough, resilient skin.

Today, dressed in 'girl mode' jacket, tight jeans and black patent stilettos, fuchsia pink lipstick, scarlet nail varnish, long false eyelashes and diamond stud earrings, his thoughts seem as random and surreal as some of his comedy, relaying themes as they pop into his head and frequently going off on tangents.

"Some people say to me, 'Oh, you just do challenges. But there are challenges and challenges. How many can you get in a taxi? I'm not doing those. I'm doing things that have a positive effect on the country, but I want to reach out to other countries – can we learn from you, can you learn from us? We can all do more than we think we can.'"

But, 27 marathons in 27 days? What was that all about?

"Why not?" he says simply. "It's adventurous, endurance and fortitude. It's fighting for something, and people saying, 'that can't happen'. It's me saying 'I can make it happen', raising money and inspiring people."

"We've got one life. Let's live it positively, rather than Donald Trump, who's living it negatively."

Eddie, 55, is a tough character, but you can understand why when you look at his past. The son of BP's chief accountant Harold Izzard, his mother Dorothy Ella died from bowel cancer when he was six, but his parents didn't tell him she was dying and he wasn't prepared for the emotional loss.

Soon after, he and his older brother Mark were sent to boarding school, another traumatic event which led to him battenning the hatches emotionally, as detailed in a chapter he entitles 'Exile'.

"We didn't see dad for two-thirds of the year. I did a lot of crying and wailing," he recalls. "I was unhappy about everything and feeling sorry for myself. I cried till I was 11."

"Boarding school toughens you up. It can make you emotionally dead because you are emotionally blocked, but you are tough. You can't empathise or sympathise."

He didn't cry again until he was 19, when a cat was run over in front of him. He picked it up and, realising that he needed to feel something, forced himself to cry.

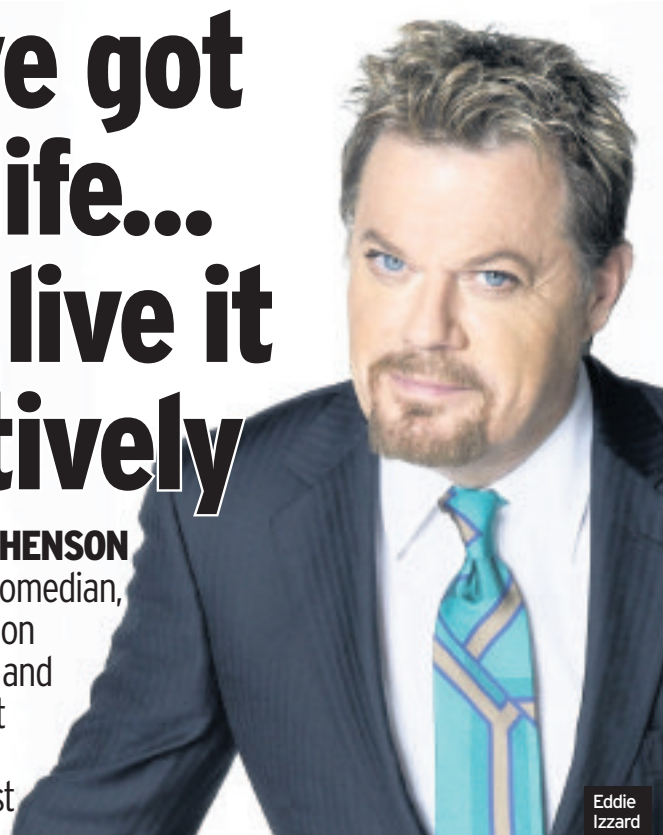

"I ripped open those pathways to ensure I knew how to cry. I knew it was bad not feeling anything."

On leaving school, he started an accounting and financial management degree at Sheffield University, where he took his first catches up with comedian, actor and marathon man Eddie Izzard and discovers his next challenge might just be the biggest

Eddie Izzard

Eddie with older brother Mark in a picture from Believe Me

Eddie after completing a 1,100mile run around the UK for Sport Relief steps into comedy. Inspired by Monty Python, he set out to take a show to the Edinburgh Festival – and through sheer grit, determination and persistence, staged his first show there in 1981.

He'd been wanting to wear dresses since he was four or five, and as a teenager used to put on his stepmother's dresses and use her make-up when she was out. He remained a closet transgender, although he says he never felt repressed at university.

"If you're a straight transvestite and you fancy girls, it's not a big deal. You can have relationships – just don't mention you're transgender."

After Edinburgh, he thought that his end goal, to be on national television, would follow. It didn't – he found himself in what he calls 'the wilderness years', dropping out of university, doing street comedy in London for almost a decade – and 'coming out' in 1984.

"It sort of made me in the end. It's such a hard thing to do. Now I'm as calm in boy mode as I am in girl mode. For a long time, if I was in girl mode I was more tense, more nervous."

He remembers the first time he stepped out in a dress and high heels. "I just felt fear, fear, fear..." he trails off. "But I also felt, 'This is how I want to express myself, so I've got to do this'."

"It's a visible thing. If you're gay, you don't have to go round saying 'I'm gay', but if you're transgender and you're noticeable, you've got to be able to fight."

"I've dealt with people shouting abuse at me, fighting me in the streets, whatever," he continues.

"Last year there was some guy screaming at me outside my house so I reported him to the police."

The man in question was found guilty on two counts of using threatening and abusive words or behaviour with intent to cause harassment, alarm or distress, and given a suspended prison sentence.

Eddie's happy to talk about his ambitions, his sexuality and his politics – he's a member of the Labour party and keen Remainer with regards to Brexit – but is not so forthcoming about his relationships. He mentions several ex-girlfriends in the book but bristles a little at the suggestion that he gives little away emotionally when describing his feelings towards them.

"I'm not going to go into that," he says carefully, although he admits that he hasn't got his personal life sorted out.

"If you get a career going well, a relationship can be here, there and everywhere. Timing is really tricky."

"You've got to find someone you're compatible with. I have put my career first because easy relationships weren't there."

Does he want to settle down and have a family?

"What does settle down mean? Stop? I don't want to stop. I do have a relationship now but I'm not telling you about it because it's their wish. I've said many times I want to have kids."

Eddie is constantly setting the bar higher for himself and will soon to be seen as Bertie, the Prince of Wales, alongside Dame Judi Dench in the forthcoming movie Victoria & Abdul, out in September. He also has two more movies planned for this year and is looking forward to his next stand-up show in Central and South America – in Spanish.

In the first general election after 2020 he'll be running for MP, he says confidently, in whichever constituency will have him. If that happened, he'd put his showbiz career on hold.

"This is just the beginning of another chapter," he concludes.

THE MUSIC SHOP by Rachel Joyce
(Doubleday, hardback £14.99, ebook £9.99)

IT'S 1988, and music shop owner Frank is one of a community of shopkeepers in a crumbling arcade threatened with demolition.

Clinging to vinyl despite the arrival of CDs, he listens to people who come in search of music – both what they say and what they don't – to recommend with uncanny ability the record they need.

Then Ilse Brauchmann, a woman nursing a secret, faints outside his shop and Frank is tipped into a breathless, frightening world of love and music lessons.

An uplifting read, full of humour and authentic characters.

THE PARTY by Elizabeth Day
(Fourth Estate, hardback £12.99, ebook £7.99)

MARTIN GILMOUR is interviewed by police about an incident at his friend Ben's 40th birthday party.

He tells officers about the lead up to the bash and this narrative is interspersed with excerpts from his wife Lucy's notebook.

Martin is a loner who is rescued from his unhappy suburban childhood by a public school scholarship and this is where he meets Ben. As Martin sets out to win Ben's friendship, a dark story of tense relationships unfolds.

Despite a few plot holes, this is still a compelling page-turner.

FINAL GIRLS by Riley Sager (Ebury Press, hardback £12.99, ebook £7.99)

THIS is a slasher flick in novel form. Quincy is one of the three titular 'final girls', who was the only survivor of a massacre that killed six of her closest college friends.

When another 'final girl' – Lisa, survivor of a sorority-house killing spree – is killed just an hour after sending Quincy an email, and when the third 'final girl' – Sam, who made it out of a motel massacre – turns up out of the blue, Quincy's reality is turned upside down.

An entertaining read, if you are a fan of slasher/horror films – and that genre's formulaic twists.

FOOD & DRINK

THESE chickpea fritters (panelle di Fabrizio, or what Rachel calls, 'Fabrizia's chickpea fritters') make great pre-dinner small bites.

INGREDIENTS

300g chickpea flour
1ltr cold water
Olive oil, for frying
Lemon wedges, to serve
Salt

METHOD

1. In a large pan, whisk together a litre of cold water and the chickpea flour until it forms a smooth batter. Tip the batter into a large, heavy-based pan over a medium-low heat and whisk steadily. After 10 minutes or so, the batter will start thickening, and now you really need to whisk to make sure it doesn't stick to the bottom. Once the mixture is coming away cleanly from the sides of the pan, it is ready.

2. Now, moving swiftly, use a spatula to smear the batter on to a clean marble surface, a large flat tin, or plates. The layer should be 3-5mm thick. Let the mixture cool completely. If you have spread it on to a work surface or tin, it can be cut into squares where it is. If you have smeared it on to plates, peel off the layer of batter carefully and cut each one into slim wedges.

3. In a pan or deep frying pan, heat the oil to frying temperature, which is 180°C, or when a cube of bread dances on the surface of the oil and turns golden after 20 seconds. Fry the squares or wedges in small batches until they are crisp and golden.

4. Lift from the oil with a slotted spoon on to kitchen paper to drain briefly, then transfer to a serving plate. Sprinkle with salt and serve straight away, with lemon wedges.

Roddy, steady, cook...

FOOD WRITER RACHEL RODDY TALKS TO ELLA WALKER ABOUT THE INSPIRATION BEHIND HER NEW COOKBOOK AND WHY SHARING MEALS AND RECIPES IS SO PERSONAL

RACHEL RODDY has recently been showered in trophies, winning two at the 2017 Guild of Food Writers Awards. But flicking through the 44-year-old food blogger and columnist's new cookbook, Two Kitchens, she already seems to have attained a kind of foodie nirvana.

A follow on from her 2015 cookbook Five Quarters, its title refers to Rachel's tiny kitchen in her flat in Rome, as well as the big, basic cooking space at her partner Vincento's family home in the industrial Gela, Sicily, where they spend their summers, and it features the "really simple food" that has come from both.

"My kitchen is the kitchen of Rome and England; my Northern grandma, every cookbook I've ever read, every TV programme I've ever watched; every bit of advice I've ever been given – and also, these are recipes that you're going to make your own. It is 'Two Kitchens' but it could be called 'Many Kitchens'," explains Rachel, who was born and raised just outside London.

She has lived in Rome for the past 12 years – arriving one day with just a rucksack and deciding to stay – but England still spools into her Italian life, and her Italian kitchens.

"I'm very aware of cooking with my mum and my grandmas when I'm here. I miss them a lot, so they're really in the kitchen with me when I cook," says Rachel, noting that having her son "brought that into sharper perspective".

Two Kitchens is split into 24 sections, each devoted to a specific ingredient (aubergines, ricotta, peas, oranges, etc), typical to her two Italian spheres.

The most iconic Sicilian recipe is caponata, a sweet and sour aubergine stew that "everyone makes – it's absolutely delicious", but in true Italian style, there can be spats over how it ought to be prepared.

"Italians still think English people can't cook!" says Rachel with a laugh. "They have really strongly held opinions about how you do things and no compromise from that at all."

"I tend to listen – there's a lot of discussions about how things should be done. I sometimes get involved, but I always regret it afterwards."

That doesn't mean she isn't fascinated with the way other people think about and cook food, though.

"It's always a lovely thing to ask someone to show you how to make something, because it's quite an intimate act, and you often get the most wonderful information from people when they teach you," she explains. "I'm not so interested in the recipe, but people's tips and secrets."

Rachel writes about food by weaving stories into recipes, and vice-versa.

"We all eat all the time, whether it's good, bad or indifferent food – it's very tied up with love and place and need, so when you write about food, you write about life," says Rachel. "It's another way of sharing: The way you share a meal, you share memories."

■ Here are three recipes from Two Kitchens to try at home.

Two Kitchens: Family Recipes from Sicily and Rome by Rachel Roddy (above), photography Rachel Roddy and Nick Seaton, is published in hardback by Headline, priced £25.

THERE'S a name that crops up quite a lot when I'm reading about wine, at wine tastings, drinking wine and generally being a wine geek. The name is Jean-Claude Mas and it's highly likely you'll have seen the brand he represents – Domaines Paul Mas.

You can pop into most supermarkets and find one of their wines but despite the extent of the range, the quality is always really good.

Jean-Claude took over his father's 35 hectares in Bordeaux in 2000 and steered the business in a different direction, acquiring a range of wineries across the Languedoc. There are now 12 Domaines Paul Mas estates across the region.

Here are four of their whites, perfect for summer.

RAISE A GLASS

WITH JANE CLARE

■ Paul Mas Vinus Frisante (£8, Morrisons, 12% abv): You've just got to love a drop of fizz. This wine is new on shelves this month and is a blend of 55% picpoul and 45% chardonnay. Sparkling wines from the Languedoc are growing in popularity and here the local picpoul (which I think has the nickname lipstinger!) adds a good bite to the blend with the chardonnay adding body and structure. There's plenty of green apples and a good citrusy zest.

■ Domaine Paul Mas Estate Marsanne 2016 (£10.99, or £8.99 in a buy six deal, Majestic, 13% abv): This is a classic from the Paul Mas stable, with grapes grown on the limestone and clay soils of the Limoux and Carcassonne areas, blended with wine from grapes from the warmer area of Hérault. It has aromas of lemon and peach, with floral wisps of blossom and honeysuckle. It has a touch of creaminess in the mouth, where honey, peach and lemon, all play their part.

■ Paul Mas Vinus Clairette du Languedoc 2016 (£8, Morrisons, 12% abv): This wine hails from the smallest and oldest appellation in the Languedoc which was created in 1948. The grape itself is one of the oldest in the region. It has traditionally been used as a blending grape but here it flies solo and very nicely too. It has a nose of ripe red apples, springtime flowers and peach; in the mouth flavours of citrus and apple cradle a mouthwatering acidity. ■ Paul Mas Reserve Languedoc Blanc 2016 (Waitrose, £8.99, 13% abv): Here's another new wine for this summer and I love it. It's a blend of 40% grenache blanc with marsanne, vermentino and viognier having an equal remaining share. Some of the blend has had oak contact which brings complex notes. The wine has aromas of vanilla, pineapple and apricots; and what's this? A touch of cinnamon? Perhaps. Those fruits can be found as soft mouth-filling flavours too.

■ Discover more at paulmas.com and on Twitter @paul_mas

■ Also in my glass... Summer time is a happy time and Aldi's popular Belletti Prosecco Spumante (11% abv) is now available in a magnum size at £12.99 which is perfect for sunny celebrations. This sparkler – which sells at £5.79 in 75cl – was one of my top fizz tips last Christmas. It has aromas of apples and pears, a touch of lemon, and hints of peach. Mmm, lovely.

THIS is an Italian favourite that makes perfect use of seasonal summer vegetables.

INGREDIENTS

2 large aubergines
Olive or groundnut oil, for frying
1kg fresh tomatoes or 500g passata
2 garlic cloves
A small handful of basil
1tsp sugar (if you need it)
500g pasta, such as spaghetti, rigatoni, casarecce, mezze maniche or penne
200g salted ricotta, grated
Salt

METHOD

1. Peel strips from the aubergine so that they are striped, then cut them into 5mm slices. If you're going to salt them, do it now; otherwise just dry them with a clean tea towel. Heat about 5cm oil in a frying pan and fry the slices, turning them halfway, until they are golden brown on both sides, then drain very well on kitchen paper. Set the slices aside, ideally near the stove so they keep warm-ish.
2. Meanwhile, bring a large

PASTA MASTER

AUBERGINE
PASTA

pan of water to the boil. If using fresh tomatoes, peel them by plunging into boiling water for one minute, then lift out with a slotted spoon and cool under cold water, at which point the skins should slip away. Roughly chop the tomatoes, removing the seeds if you wish (I don't).
3. Crush the garlic cloves with the back of a knife so they split but remain whole. Warm some more oil in a frying pan and add the garlic.
4. Once the garlic is fragrant and lightly gold, remove it from the pan, add the fresh tomatoes (or passata) and cook until they collapse into a sauce. At this point, you can pass the tomatoes through a food mill back into the pan, or if you're happy with the texture, tear in most of the basil, add sugar if you think the sauce is too sharp, and a good pinch of salt.

5. Bring the pan of tomato water back to the boil, add salt, stir well and add the pasta. Cook it until al dente, then drain it. Mix the pasta with the sauce and a handful of salted ricotta, then divide it between bowls, top with several slices of aubergine, a little more salted ricotta and a couple more basil leaves.
6. Pass around the remaining aubergine slices and cheese so that people can help themselves.

FOR a quick energy boost, a sweet snappy treat like nut brittle will hit the spot. We're not saying it's a healthy option, but Rachel's recipe sure looks delicious.

INGREDIENTS

250g whole almonds, pistachios, pine nuts or sesame seeds
Flavourless oil, for greasing
200g granulated sugar
100g honey
½ lemon

METHOD

1. If the almonds have skins, plunge them in boiling water for a couple of minutes, drain them, then slip the skins off.

2. If you are toasting your nuts, preheat the oven to 150°C/130°C fan/gas mark 2 and roast them for five minutes, or until they are very pale gold. If you like, chop the nuts roughly.
3. Lightly grease a heatproof work surface or line a baking tray with greaseproof paper.
4. In a small heavy-based pan, melt the sugar and honey over a low heat, then increase the heat until it is boiling at the edges – but be careful, it must not burn.

NUTS ABOUT IT

NUT BRITTLE (MAKES

5. Add the nuts or seeds and stir vigorously for another minute, then tip onto the prepared work surface or baking tray.
6. Use a wet palette knife or metal spatula to press the mixture flat, then rub it with the cut side of a lemon.
7. Allow to cool.
8. To serve, break into pieces. It keeps well in an airtight tin in a cool, dry place.

BEAUTY COUNTER

Summer loving...

Take your cue from the SS17 catwalks with soft, earthy shades on eyes, lips and cheeks, says KATIE WRIGHT

THE international fashion weeks give us their fair share of out-there beauty looks, and while a face covered in real flower petals a la Preen looks ever-so pretty on a load of impossibly beautiful teen models, it's not exactly going work for Thursday night after-work drinks, is it?

Three cheers, then, for the SS17 catwalks, which delivered a host of beautiful make-up ideas in soft, organic tones that you'll definitely want to try.

"These colours are designed to enhance and mimic really great skin condition," explains MAC make-up artist Terry Barber. "The modern way to wear them is in textures that have an affinity with the complexion."

"Peach, pink and tan look alive and fresh when applied with transparency," agrees make-up artist Mark Carrasquillo. "They are what I call very heightening colours."

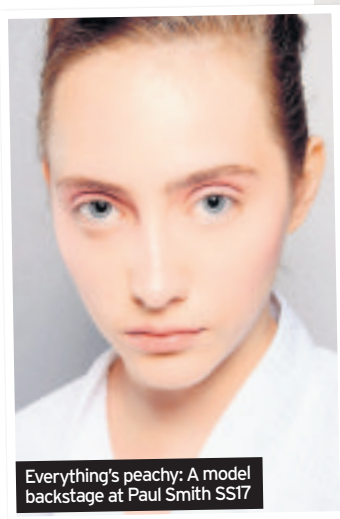

Ready to heighten your look? Here are four ways to wear the sun-kissed make-up trend...

1 GOLDEN EYES

"FRESH but sophisticated, with a little touch of gold on the lip and the eye," is how Lloyd Simmons described the look he created at Alexis Mabilie, where MAC Powersurge soft gold eyeliner was applied beneath the lower lashline, creating a subtle, brightening effect.

A very light coat of brown mascara was used, while at Shrimps, the lashes were left bare and a wash of metallic cream and powder shadows was buffed all the way up to the brows, to create an 'other-worldly' glow.

Everything's peachy: A model backstage at Paul Smith SS17

2 TAN LIPS

THE Nineties brown lip isn't going anywhere this season. In fact, at the SS17 shows, we got three new takes on the trend.

The most literal homage came at Moschino, where precisely lined lips were filled in with matte pale tan. At Blumarine, creamy mahogany complemented the peachy eyes, while at Roksanda, a russet lipstick was blurred at the edges.

3 TEA-STAINED EYES

BROWN eyeshadow may not sound ground-breaking, but the eye looks at Roksanda and Stella Jean felt really fresh. That's because a soft peachy-brown cream shadow was applied in a monochromatic wash from lid to crease, while at the latter, clear lip gloss was added to enhance the shine.

4 PEACHY SKIN

GIVE you bronzer a break and embrace the peachy, youthful glow of the girls at Missoni, Paul Smith and Blumarine, where Petros Petrouhlos' brief was: "Rosy cheeks, a sun-kissed girl.... like she is living on the beach." That means opting for liquid blushers and shimmery powders and applying liberally - matte is not an option.

■ No, Monsieur Big is not Carrie Bradshaw's French boyfriend, he is in fact the flirty new mascara from Lancôme (£21).

We've already gone on a few hot dates with him, and after hearing plenty of compliments about our 'beautiful eyes' we've decided he's a keeper.

All bad puns aside, there's a clever ultra-flexy wax in this mascara that envelops lashes and makes them flutteringly fabulous.

■ This summer we won't be making a mad dash to Boots in the check-in lounge and grabbing any old razor.

Oh no, our legs are getting first-class treatment with the brilliant new Venus Snap Cosmo, £9.99.

Packaged in a handy little case, it has moisturising 'ribbons' that glide over your skin, leaving a silky-smooth finish.

There's no need to waste space on shaving gel either, just add water and you're good to go.

Come and give Rugby a "TRY" for free!
For girls and boys aged 6-11

Saturday 22nd July 10:45am-1pm

Harlow Rugby Club Mini Section

Mini Rugby is a series of simplified versions of rugby to introduce kids to the game.

For a timetable of the day, please contact Paul

Do I need to sign up in advance?

Please email pauloweneynon@gmail.com including your Child's Name, Date of Birth, School
Year, Address and any medical conditions.

How do we coach mini rugby at Harlow?

It's about a kids centric approach so we put what they want at the centre of what we do.

We ask them lots of questions, set them challenges and spend more time working in small groups on focused skills. What children learn from Rugby Union is Teamwork, Respect, Enjoyment, Discipline and Sportsmanship.

What do my kids need to bring?

Just turn up with a drink for your child and make sure they have trainers or football boots, shorts and a shirt.

How much does it cost?

This is a one off session just for fun so it is free!

Can I leave my child with you?

Sorry no, not for this session, please stay and watch the session this time.

Who can I speak to?

IS THIS THE BEST GARDEN IN HARLOW?

Enjoying a private location hidden behind iron gates the gardens are a real feature and there is a detached storage stable block with separate hardstand for the build of a potential single story office or possible gym PAGE 28&29

HOT HOUSE

IMPRESSIVE WITH HALF

This property has been transformed into an impressive family home by the current home owners of eleven years and it still has huge potential. Before you even step inside, you will be stunned by more than half an acre of land hidden behind the iron gates of this private home in Latton Common, Harlow.

On the ground floor, you will enter to find the wood burning stove, with French doors that open out onto a large rear patio area. Downstairs there is also a living room made perfect for evenings with the family, as well as a downstairs cloakroom.

When it comes to bedrooms, you will be spoilt for choice with a total of five on offer, all of which are beautifully presented.

On the first floor, the master bedroom comes with an en suite shower and the other four bedrooms are all within easy access to the large family bathroom, which has a separate bath and shower.

The heart of this house however is the kitchen and dining area, which boasts a spectacular view of the garden.

Whether you are simply enjoying a cup of coffee first thing in the morning or seated for dinner, it is a view that you will want to admire no matter the time of day.

The loft has been adapted to provide a huge storage space and this house can still offer plenty more.

There is a detached storage stable block with separate hardstand which creates the potential for an office or even a gym.

The property also has easy access to nearby schools, including Holy Cross Catholic Primary School and Pear Tree Mead, which are both rated as good by Ofsted.

This impressive home is on the market for £995,000.

TO BOLDLY GO

Don't be afraid to bring pattern into your home

For a striking interior, try placing a bold armchair against a plain wall

My ultimate guilty pleasure is flicking through decades-old home magazines to reminisce about the looks of old.

And the one thing that constantly strikes me is just how much pattern used to be around. Wallpaper, curtains, sofas and carpets all clashed beautifully, only to be phased out as we fell in love with the minimalist look. But following last year's obsession with Hygge, homes are becoming increasingly cosy once more, with colours and patterns being used more frequently to add depth and interest.

But it isn't for everyone and if you're unsure how to introduce pattern without overwhelming your existing interior, start small.

THE ACCESSORIES

Accessories are the perfect place to experiment

LESLEY'S TOP TIPS FOR PATTERN

1. Start small, especially if you are used to a minimalist décor.
2. Experiment with reasonably-priced and second-hand accessories.
3. Don't be afraid to mix and match clashing patterns.
4. If you love pattern, embrace it on big ticket purchases.
5. Flooring is difficult to replace so make sure you are certain before changing.

Use wallpaper to add pattern to the walls - a feature wall is a great starting point with pattern. Tableware and napkins will add vibrancy in the dining room, while towels and toothbrush holders will draw attention in the bathroom.

The great thing about patterned accessories is usually they are easy to replace should you decide it is not the look for you. They are also great for finding your feet, exploring which shapes and colours work together and how they interact with the light in your home. And once you have the accessories sussed you can move on to bigger things.

THE FURNITURE

Investing in a new standout piece of furniture is always a big deal and opting for a piece of brightly-patterned furniture can be even more daunting. But buy right and they will look fabulous.

Occasional armchairs are perfect for pattern. They are large enough to grab attention but not too big that they will dominate the whole room.

In the bedroom, plump headboards are making a comeback and are suitably sized to hold a chunky pattern. And if you want to add pattern to a hallway, why not shop around some sec-

A rug, scatter cushions and screen will all add depth. This collection, taylorsetc.co.uk ond-hand stores or vintage emporiums for an upcycled patterned retro bureau or chest of drawers. Not only are these extremely practical when it comes to clearing up clutter, but they will add a focal point in a space often devoid of one.

THE WALLS

There are so many options for adding pattern to walls.

Wallpaper is one of the easiest ways, but instead of re-papering an entire room why not create a feature wall or highlight an alcove?

Another way to introduce pattern would be through artwork. Artwork ranges in price from high quality, yet low priced prints, to bespoke, tailor-made paintings, so there is something for all tastes and budgets.

You could even have a go making your own. Get a small wallpaper sample from your local DIY shop and a plain, chunky frame and voila! Pattern at half the price.

THE FLOOR

Patterned carpets used to be everywhere; not anymore.

Feeling bold? The Shoreditch collection may well be the flooring for you, bakedtiles.co.uk

Nowadays if you want a vibrant floor covering tiles are your best bet.

There are plenty of patterned floor tiles and if you choose a porcelain range - such as those from The Baked Tile Company - you can keep these in top condition with the minimum of effort.

Tiles can be used in any room in the house too, gone are the days when they were simply relegated to the bathroom or kitchen.

However, replacing all your floor coverings throughout your home with tiles can be pricey; so a more budget-friendly option would be to add interest with a rug.

You can get rugs of all shapes and sizes and not only will they bring depth, colour and pattern to a room, they will protect your existing flooring from any unsightly stains.

HOME ADVICE

With Alex Neill of Which?

Alter the balance of power

Switching energy suppliers is easy, can save you cash and lower prices for all by breaking the dominance of the Big Six

Too many people are spending too much on gas and electricity. But it only takes a few minutes to secure a better deal. There are lots of great deals around – and, according to Which?, a switch from high cost providers to a best buy could save around £300.

That's cash that would buy a lot! It's the same power whether you pay top prices or go for best buy deals. It's a huge saving for a little online work or a phone call.

The biggest savings come if you are on Npower's dual fuel standard tariff and you switch to newcomer Green Network Energy, typically about £326.

Not everyone does that well, but if you are on a standard tariff with any of the Big Six companies, British Gas, Npower, SSE, Eon, EDF Energy, and Scottish Power you could save an average £183.

Most consumers are still with these firms. According to energy regulator Ofgem, 85% got electricity from a big provider in December 2016. In 2004, it was almost everyone so it's slow progress.

Many of the best deals come from companies you have probably never heard of. Besides Green Network Energy, Which? found good rates from Tonik Energy, Avro Energy and Bristol Energy.

In all, there are now more than 50 energy suppliers to choose from – and there could be another 24 if all the firms currently granted or applying for a licence enter the market. It adds up to hundreds of tariffs.

One newcomer, Igloo Energy, pitches at the smartphone user who has a "connected home" promising greater efficiency.

The Big Six are fighting back with greater innovation. Npower's Cleaner Energy Fix promises all your electricity and 15% of your gas comes from renewable sources. It will cost typical users £1,077 a year – £110 less than its standard tariff but about £210 a

Power is the same no matter who is providing it, yet most of us still stay with big name providers year dearer than similar deals from Tonik and Bulb.

And there could be good news for those less able to pay. Ofgem recently announced it was thinking of a "safeguard tariff" to stop vulnerable consumers overpaying, effectively extending existing protection for those on pre-payment meters.

Millions of hard pressed customers are overpaying for energy and suffering due to a lack of competition in the market. More help for the most vulnerable is welcome but people will question whether Ofgem interventions are enough to deliver a market suitable for all.

Ofgem is considering a new 'safeguard tariff' to protect customers on pre-paid meters, pictured below

TIPS ON SWITCHING

1. The best deals go to those who switch – suppliers won't offer savings on a plate.

2. Based on last year, summer and early autumn are the best times to move supplier.

3. If you are on a standard tariff, then look elsewhere.

4. Fixed price deals are generally good value. Some have exit penalties although not all so you can change your mind – perhaps if you move home.

5. You'll generally save money if you go for paperless billing and a regular direct debit.

6. The Which? Switch website will help you navigate your way. You can also phone 0800 410 1149 or 01259 220235. It's easy – and could save you big money.

LOVE ISLAND LOVE NEST UP FOR SALE

Britain has been gripped by Love Island mania after the dating reality show's most recent series kicked off this summer, pitching dozens of contestants against each other in a bid to win the £50,000 prize.

Aired on ITV 2, the format of elimination based on each contestants' ability to couple up plus public popularity votes and contestant ballots has seen a predictable bout of tears and contestant face-offs.

One new feature this series is that there are two Mallorcan villas where the contestants reside. The second of these has been Casa Amore, where several rounds of elimination have taken place. Now that the TV crew have packed up, the property is for sale.

Described by agent Chestertons International as "one of the most stylish homes to have been built in Mallorca for 20 years," it is outside the rural village of Sant Llorenç des Cardassar in the eastern region of the holiday island.

It's for sale at €2.9 million and includes four bedrooms, four bathrooms and an open-plan ground floor. This includes a main salon with an open-flame gas fire and a 14-metre long pool, several terraces and a garden full of orange and lemon trees.

Protected by electric gates, the villa is in an area of outstanding natural beauty and has been designed to take advantage of the breezes that waft over the local countryside, keeping the house cool even during the summer months.

■ Call Chestertons International on 020 7201 2071.

Actor, singer and comedian Dean Martin found fame as one of Hollywood's golden-age 'crooners', perfecting an on-screen smooth-talking persona that gained him the 'King of Cool' moniker during the 1960s. He was born in 1917 and by luck and talent had, by the late 1950s become a household name starring in string of mainly comedy films.

But he was also famously a member of the Rat Pack, a debauched club of Hollywood stars which included Frank Sinatra, Joey Bishop and Sammy Davis Junior. Many of these actors, including Dean, appeared in the 1960 heist film Ocean's 11, which was revived by Brad Pitt and George Clooney in 2001.

Dean made it to the age of 78, helped by his aversion to alcohol and drugs despite his boozy stage persona, although he was a heavy smoker - a habit that eventually claimed his life.

From 1988 until his death from lung cancer in 1995, Dean lived in the Trousdale Estates neighbourhood of Beverley Hills.

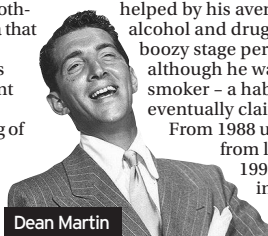

hood of Beverley Hills.

It was here that he recovered from his three failed marriages and struggled with depression following the death of his son Dean Paul in a jet fighter crash in 1987.

In 2014 the property was bought by a developer who stripped out Dean's 1980s décor and brought it up to date including a more open-plan layout and clean design.

The property, which is with agent Coldwell Banker, is available for $27.95m or can be rented at $125,000 a month.

Ever wondered what inspired the author of Goldilocks and The Three Bears to write his intriguing story of a hungry girl who steps into a mysterious house in the woods to try the beds, and porridge?

One candidate is Burton Cottage, an idyllic rural thatched property. Author Robert Southey lived there between 1799 and 1805 and it is where he wrote the story, based on an earlier fairytale.

His version wasn't published until 1837, but it's easy to see why Southey's time at Burton Cottage was influential.

The pretty thatched property lies in a secluded, wooded garden in the village of Burton, two miles north of Christchurch in Dorset.

It's just the place where three bears eating their differently-sized bowls of steaming porridge would enjoy sitting down in the cottage's spacious interior, or tucking themselves into its comfy beds at night.

Mind you, much has changed since Southey penned his enduring children's tale at the property.

Although traditional-looking from the outside, the 2,800 sq ft interior of Burton Cottage has been reconfigured recently to include three reception rooms, two bathrooms complete with chandeliers, a bespoke fitted kitchen, luxurious cinema room and five individually designed double bedrooms.

The question is: who will be sleeping in these beds? Only time will tell when the new owner of the Goldilocks author's former home is revealed. Burton Cottage is for sale at £1.15 million via Lovett International (01202 303044).

OWN UNDERWOODS' HOUSE OF CARDS

If you've ever seen the US adaption of BBC's political drama House of Cards starring Kevin Spacey and Robin Wright, pictured, you'll be familiar with the power battles that went on inside this huge brownstone property they occupied in Washington prior to their move to The White House.

The property is where the series' characters Frank and Claire Underwood lived at the fictional address, 1609 Far Street.

The location, used for the exterior shots in the first two seasons, lies some 40 miles to the north of Washington in Baltimore at 1609 park Avenue. The 19th Century home is now up for auction with a $500,000 minimum. The three-bedroom property has 4,600 sq ft of living space set across four storeys as well as 12ft-high ceilings.

It also has a large fitted kitchen leading out onto the rear patio and garages for two vehicles and with a rooftop BBQ deck. Contact Alex Cooper Auctioneers (00 1 410 828 4838).

£6.5M NOTES FOR SINGER'S HOME

If you've ever found yourself in a pub singing It's a Long Way to Tipperary or in more morose moments Keep the Home Fires Burning then you have tenor John McCormack to thank.

He was the Luciano Pavarotti of the early 19th century and although born in Ireland and a friend of author James Joyce during his earlier years, he travelled to Italy to train as a professional singer.

He made his debut in 1905 in Italy and the year after sang at London's Covent Garden opera house at just 21. His recordings made him a household name. He was one of the first singers to take advantage of the emerging phonograph technology of the time, and made multiple recordings.

His most popular song, I Hear You Calling Me, topped the sales charts and helped make him a multi-millionaire in today's money. He later moved to the US and became a naturalised American citizen, appearing in several of the early Hollywood 'talkie' films. John also spent much of his fortune on property, owning homes in New York, California, Ireland and London.

One of these is now for sale. It's a double-fronted detached Victorian house in the London suburb of Hampstead where the singer lived between 1908 and 1913. It's for sale with TK International (020 7794 8700) for £6.5 million. It has two reception rooms, seven bedrooms, three bathrooms, a 63-foot rear garden and a garage for up to six cars.

YOUR GARDEN

With Diarmuid Gavin

Front gardens are often your first point of contact with the world, a way of making a first impression and the part of your home and life which most people connect with... and that includes you!

We often scurry through the front garden, racing to the door, sometimes laden with groceries, to get inside as soon as possible.

During colder or rainy months we don't tend to consider these spaces too often – they just exist.

However, at this time of the year we linger longer, cutting grass, dead-heading roses, often taking time to chat to the neighbours as we work.

It's a good time of year to reassess the space to examine how it's looking.

Are you making full use of its possibilities? How can you improve the look of your garden and enhance your house at the same time?

Are we too fixed in our ideas as to what a front garden "should" look like? Does your garden have a feature... a tree, a special collection of plants or a striking ornament to act as a decorative element and capture imagination?

First are the rules: The design should be simple, uncomplicated and welcoming.

Easy and direct access should be maintained to the main routes – the front door and possibly a side entrance and/or garage, where bins may be stored or where bicycles or cars need to be reached easily.

The layout (the overall design) should have strong, definite bones.

Signal clearly with line and shape where people should go, leading the way to the front door. All other routes

Foxglove at first sight

... and other fabulous ideas to give your front garden the welcoming wow factor should be visually subservient.

Use big pots or collections of smaller pots on either side of the front door. They signal clearly your required focus.

In cities or urban areas you may need to factor in space within the garden for storage of rubbish bins, bicycles or fuel. Manufacturers and retailers are supplying an ever-increasing range of safe, lockable storage units. Plan to incorporate these in an unobtrusive way, maybe by a side wall, and try to colour co-ordinate them to ensure they don't stand out.

Use the same judgment with paths or driveways too, as generally they are there to do a job and not to be the stand-out features. Subtle can be best.

Consider the boundary between you and your neighbours. Is there a fence or hedge? Fences don't have to be standard, uniform or even straight.

Visit sites such as Pinterest to find a world of inspiration

If you don't have a fence, look at your hedge. Is it doing its job, providing an attractive screen around the garden? Or is it time for a change?

Wonderful topiary can be made from the plainest of hedges.

Bamboo can look great but plant non-invasive types or use a root barrier so it doesn't pop up in your neighbours plot. Remember also, if you live beside a busy road, a hedge or planted screen can provide a wonderful noise buffer.

Formal clipped beech, yew and boxwood work well and even though

First rate: Make an impression, whether your plot is large or small

Cracking idea: If you have cracks or crevices in a brick boundary wall, try planting in the openings

Pot luck: Containers help to signal directions campanula, saxifrage or other alpine.

Your decorative feature could be a planted archway to walk under on your journey to the door, a fountain (with water reservoir safely out of reach of little ones), a sundial or even a simple seat or bench where you can relax and watch the world go by.

Planting choices depend on your favoured style. For instance, a contemporary look could be achieved with grasses and bursts of single colours – agapanthus are looking great as pop-ups right now).

A cottage garden feel could be delightful for an older home, with roses round the front door, a higgledycommon privet isn't trendy it works perfectly well. Informal options include flowering rose bushes, fuchsia, hydrangea and escallonia.

If your boundary is constructed as a plain brick or concrete wall, you can ring in the changes by changing the colour with a lick of paint. If it has cracks or crevices, introduce some planting in the openings.

A nice dry sunny position would be well decorated with aubrietia,

Keep veg well watered

Time is right to start taking cuttings

■ It's a good time to take softwood and semi-ripe cuttings – this is a great way to grow relatively expensive plants, such as Buxus.

Take cuttings from tender plants to over-winter indoors.

■ Pinch out tomato shoots. Feed tomatoes, peppers and cucumber with high potash fertiliser once fruits start to form.

■ Cherry, plum and peach trees can be pruned if needs be now

JOBS FOR THE WEEK

– this is a job you can't do in winter as there is a risk of silver leaf disease.

■ Check for cabbage white butterfly eggs under cabbage leaves and remove.

■ Sow spring cabbage, turnips, fennel and autumn/winter salads.

■ Stop climbing beans when they reach the top of their stakes so they divert energy to cropping on sideshoots.

Remember to keep them, and all vegetables, sufficiently watered.

■ Missed the potato planting season? You can get cold-stored tubers which can be planted now and will mature in time for Christmas.

These are best planted in bags or containers that can be brought indoors to a greenhouse before first frosts.

Check for cabbage white butterfly eggs

Inviting: Your front garden is the first point of contact with the world, so make it bright, warm and welcoming

Pop ups: Agapanthus look great right now

Every front garden should also host a tree to add to the overall streetscape.

My favourite choices for this situation include acer griseum, cercidiphyllum japonicum, crataegus Paul's Scarlet...or an elegant pyrus salicifolia.

If your style is somewhat eccentric, why not try upcycling or recycling objects to create a unique and individual look for your garden. Or keep it simple with a classic look - bay trees in terracotta pots... hanging baskets...

Finally there's the overall community to consider. Your local council may have planning rules or regulations. These are often specific to front gardens and can cover anything from the height of your front fence to the colour of your house.

To find out what applies in your area, contact your council planning department.

Tremendous: Acer griseum piggledy jumble of colours derived from foxgloves, geraniums, salvias and lavender.

A formal look in either a classical or modernist style is achievable with clipped evergreen, such as box, holly or yew.

ASK DIARMUID

Q My son has a lovely red tree rose, but for years there has been another rose on the same stem climbing right up to the height of the 8ft fencing.

But this rose is different - like a climbing rose, which spreads along fencing.

Is this unusual to see - like a dog rose?

Mr D.L. Barnes

A That sounds interesting. I'd say a seed of a species rose, such as Rosa canina (dog rose) blew into your son's garden and found a happy home next door to the red

Bow wow: Dog rose (Rosa canina)

rose and decided to stay put. It's surprising it hasn't taken over completely and strangled the original rose. But as long they coexist peacefully, it sounds like a happy marriage!

PLANT OF THE WEEK

ABELIA

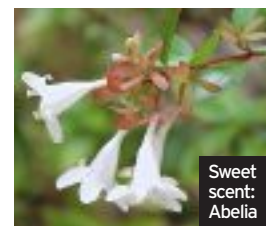

It will come as no surprise that this shrub is related to the honeysuckle family when you get a whiff of its delicious sweet fragrance.

Petite dark green glossy leaves on arching stems are the backdrop to lots of small pink flowers which provide the lovely scent from July to September.

Plant in full sun in well-drained soil. In colder areas, plant in a sheltered position near a wall for protection as it is borderline hardy.

It's low maintenance - trim to keep tidy after flowering.

Sweet scent: Abelia

DYNAMIC NEW TOYOTA

By Ian Johnson

TOYOTA? Oh, they are a bit boring aren't they? said a friend when discussing the latest car. But when I showed him what Toyota had delivered his face was a study in disbelief.

Of course, the car could only be the Toyota C-HR, a model that has given the crossover market a rocket-assisted boost is pure style and youthful zest.

Toyota modestly says that this model is a fresh take on the crossover theme but in my view the company has created an icon that will be talked about for years.

The C-HR maintains the marque's enviable reputation for fine build quality and reliability and cloaks it all in the sort of styling you only see on concept cars.

Toyota has, in the past majored on conservatively styled vehicles like the RAV4 in the SUV sector, but when the crossover market kicked into hyperdrive the company's new global architecture platform was wheeled in to be the underpinnings of a model that was out to upstage cars like the Nissan Juke, Vauxhall Mokka and the Renault Kadjar.

Its futuristic looks, with bulged wheel arches and astonishing blade lines, tucks and curves deny the fact that this is really a practical five-door. You would never believe it at first glance, but rear passenger do have excellent access with handles hidden in the top rear corners of the doors.

This particular car was one of the mainstream choices, a 1.2-litre petrol turbo with all-wheel-drive via CVT automatic transmission.

This model has an all-singing and all-dancing approach to everyday driving with its over-the-top looks balanced by warm-hatch performance, a commanding driving position and all-weather road grip.

The choice of engine underlines the fact that petrol power is back in a big way. With 111mph on tap plus a 0-62mph sprint time of 11.4 seconds, this C-HR is no slouch and economy gets a yes with a combined figure of 44.8mpg. Not bad for a petrol all-wheel-drive crossover.

The car's name, C-HR stands for Coupe High Rider and it certainly lives up to what it says on the tin with excellent visibility all round despite the swooping low rear roof line.

As you would expect, this is no cheapie at £27,995 and this is reflected in the use of high quality materials in the cabin and exceptional equipment such as an eight-inch infotainment screen and sat nav, and premium touches such as airfllets of blue aluminium on the door panels and dash.

This is certainly going to be a difficult act to follow for Toyota and for the opposition, I would imagine thinking caps are firmly on to counter this audacious and thoroughly charming newcomer.

Repairs & Voids Manager
 37.5 hours per week
 Weekdays 8am - 4pm
 Salary £44,434 - £46,345

An exciting opportunity has arisen within our thriving new company to become a Repairs & Voids Manager, serving the local community of Harlow. You will be responsible for providing an efficient and cost effective responsive maintenance service including fixed price, compliance and planned works to the required quality standards and within approved budgets, in agreement with appropriate legislative controls and within the policies of HTS Group. You will be responsible in contributing to the strategic development, resource allocation and business performance of the responsive repair service along with assisting in developing "profitability" and in the provision of an efficient, effective and responsible local housing service.

An attractive package includes a LGPS pension scheme, annual leave of 32 days, free parking.

For a job description and personal specification please call Charlotte Askew on 01279446968. To apply, submit an up-to-date CV with 2 sides of an A4 sheet explaining how you meet the points set out in the Person Specification to hr.admin@htsgrouppltd.co.uk or HR & Communications Coordinator, HTS (Property & Environment) Ltd, Mead Park Estate, Harlow Essex CM20 2SE

Closing date: 28/07/2017
 Interviews: 31/07/2017 - 4/08/2017

How to improve a car's performance by 70%

The effectiveness consultancy Benchmarking recently analysed what happens when companies include press advertising in their media mix.

They looked at more than 500 econometric models, covering a five-year period and, as the table here shows, they found that adding newspapers dramatically increases the effectiveness of other media.

In the automotive sector they reviewed companies that ranged from the big spending German goliaths of the industry to medium sized independent carmakers.

And they discovered that by adding newspaper advertising to their campaigns, they cranked up their effectiveness by over 70%.

Increased effectiveness using newspapers

Retail	Automotive	Finance
2.8x	1.7x	5.7x

So, whatever the size your business or budget, get motoring into newspapers.

DP Bodytone 300 Multi-Gym for the Home. I guess I bought this 25 years ago. I guess I used it 20 years ago!!
Scratches and blemishes but in full working condition and great for home exercising. The DP Bodytone 300 Multi-Gym uses a pair of adjustable hydraulic pumps for 6 different resistance levels. Each of the rowing arms can be operated independently or together to do either the standard rowing exercise or an alternating rowing exercise.
By attaching the bench seat to the sliding seat poles and then laying on your back, two arm pullers and alternating pullers can be done to give your shoulders and chest muscles a work-out. By attaching the bench seat to the post near the feet and flipping the machine on end so that the bench seat rests on the floor, the rowing arms of the DP Bodytone 300 Multi-Gym can be used for squats, bench presses, bicep curls, shoulder presses and shoulder shrugs. Buyer must collect. £110.00

Public Notices

ROAD TRAFFIC REGULATION ACT 1984 - SECTION 14(1)(a) AND (c), AND REGULATION 16(2) OF THE MOTORWAY TRAFFIC (ENGLAND AND WALES) REGULATIONS 1982 THE M11 MOTORWAY (JUNCTION 6 TO 8) AND THE M25 MOTORWAY (JUNCTION 27) (TEMPORARY RESTRICTION AND PROHIBITION OF TRAFFIC) ORDER 2017

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that Highways England Company Limited (a) has made an Order on the M11 and the M25 Motorways in Essex to allow for carriageway resurfacing and associated works, traffic loop cutting, motorway communications, lighting replacement, bridge works and routine maintenance works to be carried out in safety.

The works are expected to last for approximately 3 months (9pm-5am) commencing on or after Monday 31 July 2017. There may be some full weekend closures required at times. The works will be carried out using a combination of lane closures, full carriageway closures, hard shoulder running, narrow lanes and slip road closures. A temporary mandatory speed limit will be in force at times in the interest of safety. The closures and speed restriction will be applied only to the extent that is necessary for particular works to be undertaken and will only apply during such times and to such extent as will be indicated by traffic signs.

The effect of the Order will be to –

- impose a speed limit of 50 miles per hour on the –
 - northbound carriageway of the M11 from 930 metres south of the B172 (Abridge Road) underbridge to 720 metres north of the northern overbridge at J8,
 - southbound carriageway of the M11 from 100 metres south of the Church Road overbridge, Stansted Mountfitchet (north of J8) to 420 metres north of the M25 J27 overbridge,
 - exit slip roads leading from the northbound carriageway of the M11 at J8 and J7,
 - exit slip roads leading from the southbound carriageway of the M11 at J7 and J8,
 - entry slip road leading to the northbound carriageway of the M11 at J7,
 - entry slip road leading to the southbound carriageway of the M11 at J7 and J8,
- close the –
 - clockwise carriageway of the M25 at J27 to the northbound carriageway of the M11 at J6,
 - anti-clockwise carriageway of the M25 at J27 to the northbound carriageway of the M11 at J6,
 - clockwise carriageway of the M25 at J27 to the southbound carriageway of the M11 at J6,
 - southbound carriageway of the M11 at J6 to the clockwise carriageway of the M25 at J27,
 - southbound carriageway of the M11 at J6 to the anti-clockwise carriageway of the M25 at J27,
 - northbound carriageway of the M11 at J8 to the eastbound carriageway of the A120 at M11 J8a, and
 - westbound carriageway of the A120 at M11 J8a to the southbound carriageway of the M11 at J8;
- close the –
 - northbound M11 between J6 and J7 – diverting traffic via the anticlockwise M25 to M25 J25, then A10 and A414 to re-join the M11 at J7,
 - southbound M11 between J7 and J6 – diverting traffic via the A414, A10, then clockwise M25 J25 to M25 J27 to re-join the M11 at J6,
 - northbound M11 between J7 and J8 – diverting traffic via the A414, A10 and A120 to re-join the M11 at J8,
 - southbound between J8 and J7, diverting traffic via the A120, A10 and A414 to re-join the M11 at J7,
 - exit slip roads leading from and entry slip roads leading to the northbound and southbound M11 at J7,
 - entry slip road leading to the southbound M11 at J8,
 - exit slip road leading from the northbound M11 at J8,
 - northbound entry slip roads at J6 from the clockwise and anticlockwise carriageways of the M25, and
 - southbound exit slip roads at J6 to the clockwise and anticlockwise carriageways of the M25,

The temporary mandatory speed limits (which will not apply to emergency service or special forces vehicles), closures (which will not apply to emergency service, traffic officer, works or winter maintenance vehicles) and diversion routes will be clearly indicated by traffic signs throughout the works.

The Order will come into force on 24 July 2017 and have a maximum duration of eighteen months.

YOUR STARS WITH

ARIES MARCH 21 - APRIL 20

You have learnt much about the kind of future you want just from seeing what those ones would and would not give this month. Don't think that the journey you have to take alone, as I see from your stars that you can and will work brilliantly as part of a team. You just have to separate the flaws of one person from another. Ring now to hear why it's imperative to return all phone calls.

Chiassaro has final worlds medal shot

Wheelchair racer has a spectacular crash in final

By Andrew Franczak

andrew.franczak@hertsessexnews.co.uk

HARLOW wheelchair racer Richard Chiassaro had one last chance to win a medal at the World Para Athletics Championships last night (Wednesday) in the 400m after missing out in three earlier finals.

The 35-year-old had a punishing schedule of races at the London Stadium in front of record-breaking crowds, culminating in the 400m.

Chiassaro, who represented GB at the Rio Paralympics, suffered a spectacular crash during Monday night's final of the men's 800m T54 race.

Tumbling

Chasing hard on the inside line, Chiassaro clipped leader Marcel Hug's back wheel, sending him tumbling across two other athletes who were unable to finish the race.

Following the incident, the technical delegate studied video footage and decided to re-run the race this Friday, disqualifying Chiassaro, who had crossed the line in 4:13.73.

The Harlow racer, who is ranked first in UK over 100m, 200m, 400m and 800m, started his campaign on Sunday in the T54 1500m.

Chiassaro finished second in his heat after finishing in 3:11.06 in a dead heat with Rawat Tana of Thailand. Later that evening he finished eighth in the final, clocking 3:06.24 after leading at the 400m stage.

Speaking after the heat Chiassaro said: "I wanted to show that I could catch [Tana] if I needed to catch him."

"The time was a dead heat, so I'm happy with that."

"At Rio 2016, I got done by tactics, so I worked on it, I'm a lot fitter and stronger so I can do the work I needed to do at the front."

"You've got to get knocked back to get stronger."

"I knew what I needed to work on after Rio, and me and my coach went away and did it."

After spill in 800m final, Chiassaro, who is coached by Jenni Banks, bounced back with a fourth place finish in the T54 200m final on Tuesday.

Joined on the start line by compatriot Nathan Maguire, after both had navigated the preliminary round earlier in the morning, a field which contained four sub-25 athletes stood between the pair and the podium.

Last year's European champion over the distance, Chiassaro got out well from lane eight at the gun to quickly move on to Maguire's shoulder in the lane to his right.

Coming off the bend in fifth place, and with the red-hot pace of the race taking Tunisia's Yassine Gharbi to a championship record of 24.86 and gold, Chiassaro held it together to move past German Marc Schuh to snatch fourth in commanding fashion with 25.12 – a season's best and his second quickest ever time.

"The three guys that finished in front of me are world class and some of the fastest starters in the world, so for me to catch them and be in contention near the end of the race was good," said Chiassaro.

"I know that I've got to go away on work on my starts; my top speed is as good if not better than some of those guys, so that's where I need to put the work in."

"I'm getting a bit tired, but 400m is my favourite so I'll look forward to it."

Harlow lose out to Wells

A DEFEAT against Woodford Wells has seen Harlow consigned to a mid-table position in what is proving a very tough Shepherd Neame Essex League Division One campaign.

Woodford Wells won the toss and put Harlow in to bat.

This proved to be a good decision, and they bowled their opponents all out for just 108 in less than 30 overs – Callum Sykes top scoring with 31.

Replying, Woodford overhauled the target in just 18 overs, Ross Vasani taking 2-29 runs.

This Saturday Harlow hope to bounce back against Orsett at home.

■ A hard fought win at Benfleet kept Harlow Town's Division Three promotion push on track.

Neil Gladwin was the star of Town's innings. After finding themselves 48-3, he held the innings together with a valuable 81.

A sensible 22 from Jay Pathak, 46 from the ever-reliable Dan Farmer and a late flourish of 17 from Shaun Alderson, saw Town finish their 50 overs on 264-9.

A sensational second half start with the ball saw Pathak grab two early wickets, but Benfleet rebuilt their innings in the form of Gavin Blowers (79).

And with the help of Rob Zammit (35) they stayed up with the required run rate, getting the score to 140.

Well on track for victory, with the score on 177, Blowers succumbed to the bowling of Ben Eversden, caught by Dan Farmer.

Elston (4-28) then returned to the attack, cleaning up the tail with three wickets.

Owen Lambert with Nekoda Smythe-Davis

Lambert sees a silver lining

YOUNG Owen Lambert from Harlow Judo Club made the long trip to Walsall to compete at the Age Banded English Minors Open.

Due to the number of entrants, the 11-year-old's weight group was split into two pools, and Owen won all of his fights to get him into the final at the British Judo Centre of Excellence.

Despite scoring first, and with the gold medal in sight, a referee's decision denied him. He eventually he had to settle for a very respectable silver.

Owen was presented with his medal by 2014 Commonwealth Games gold medallist Nekoda Smythe-Davis.

Harryman sisters are starring for their country

TWO sporting sisters from Harlow have been in action for Great Britain and enjoying a taste of international action.

Beth Harryman, 16, and a student at St Mark's School, was part of the GB athletics team in the World Catholic School Games in Italy and returned home with gold in the high jump and a silver in the shot putt.

She was competing against U18 athletes from countries as far afield as Malta and Brazil and managed to leap a personal best of 1.65m despite the heat.

Beth threw 11m in the shot putt for second place, and also competed in the long jump – where she unfortunately was given three no jumps in error.

Video footage showed the judge's inaccuracies and was later awarded the Games' Fair Play.

Her efforts helped a strong GB squad win the team silver medal.

Beth is Harlow Athletics Club captain, and was pleased with all the support she gained from her team-mates, coach and PE teacher Erica Larke, who originally recommended her to compete for GB.

She has also recently qualified for the English Schools' National Heptathlon Championships to be held in Bedford in September.

Meanwhile, sister Naomi, 18, has been in action for GB Women's American Football team in the World Championships in Canada.

Naomi, also a member of Harlow AC, and a former St Mark's pupil, helped GB reach

Beth Harryman with her World Catholic School Games medals the bronze medal game against Mexico, which unfortunately they lost.

She was the youngest member

Naomi Harryman at the Women's American Football World Championships of the 50 strong team in Vancouver.

"I feel truly honoured to be a part of the GB team," said Naomi. "Being a rookie this year and seeing all the incredible support I have received from physios, coaches, players and supporters has been eye-opening and I hope to be a part of this team for many years to come."

"The World Championships were amazing. We played three games, and the first against Finland was definitely a highlight as we won."

"Unfortunately both Mexico and Canada outplayed us, but we had some good drives and I was pleased with my defensive performance."

Naomi has been plagued by an ankle problem, but on her return home had a successful operation, which will hopefully allow her to compete in athletics again soon.
